Thinking back
it seems like yesterday

When the days began that brought me
closer to knowledge
And to the people who learned at Sterling

Those were the days
that the rain, the wind, the sun, touched me
As I passed others
in the morning at lunch and after school
Some of them smiled at me
A friendly smile
that meant "hello"

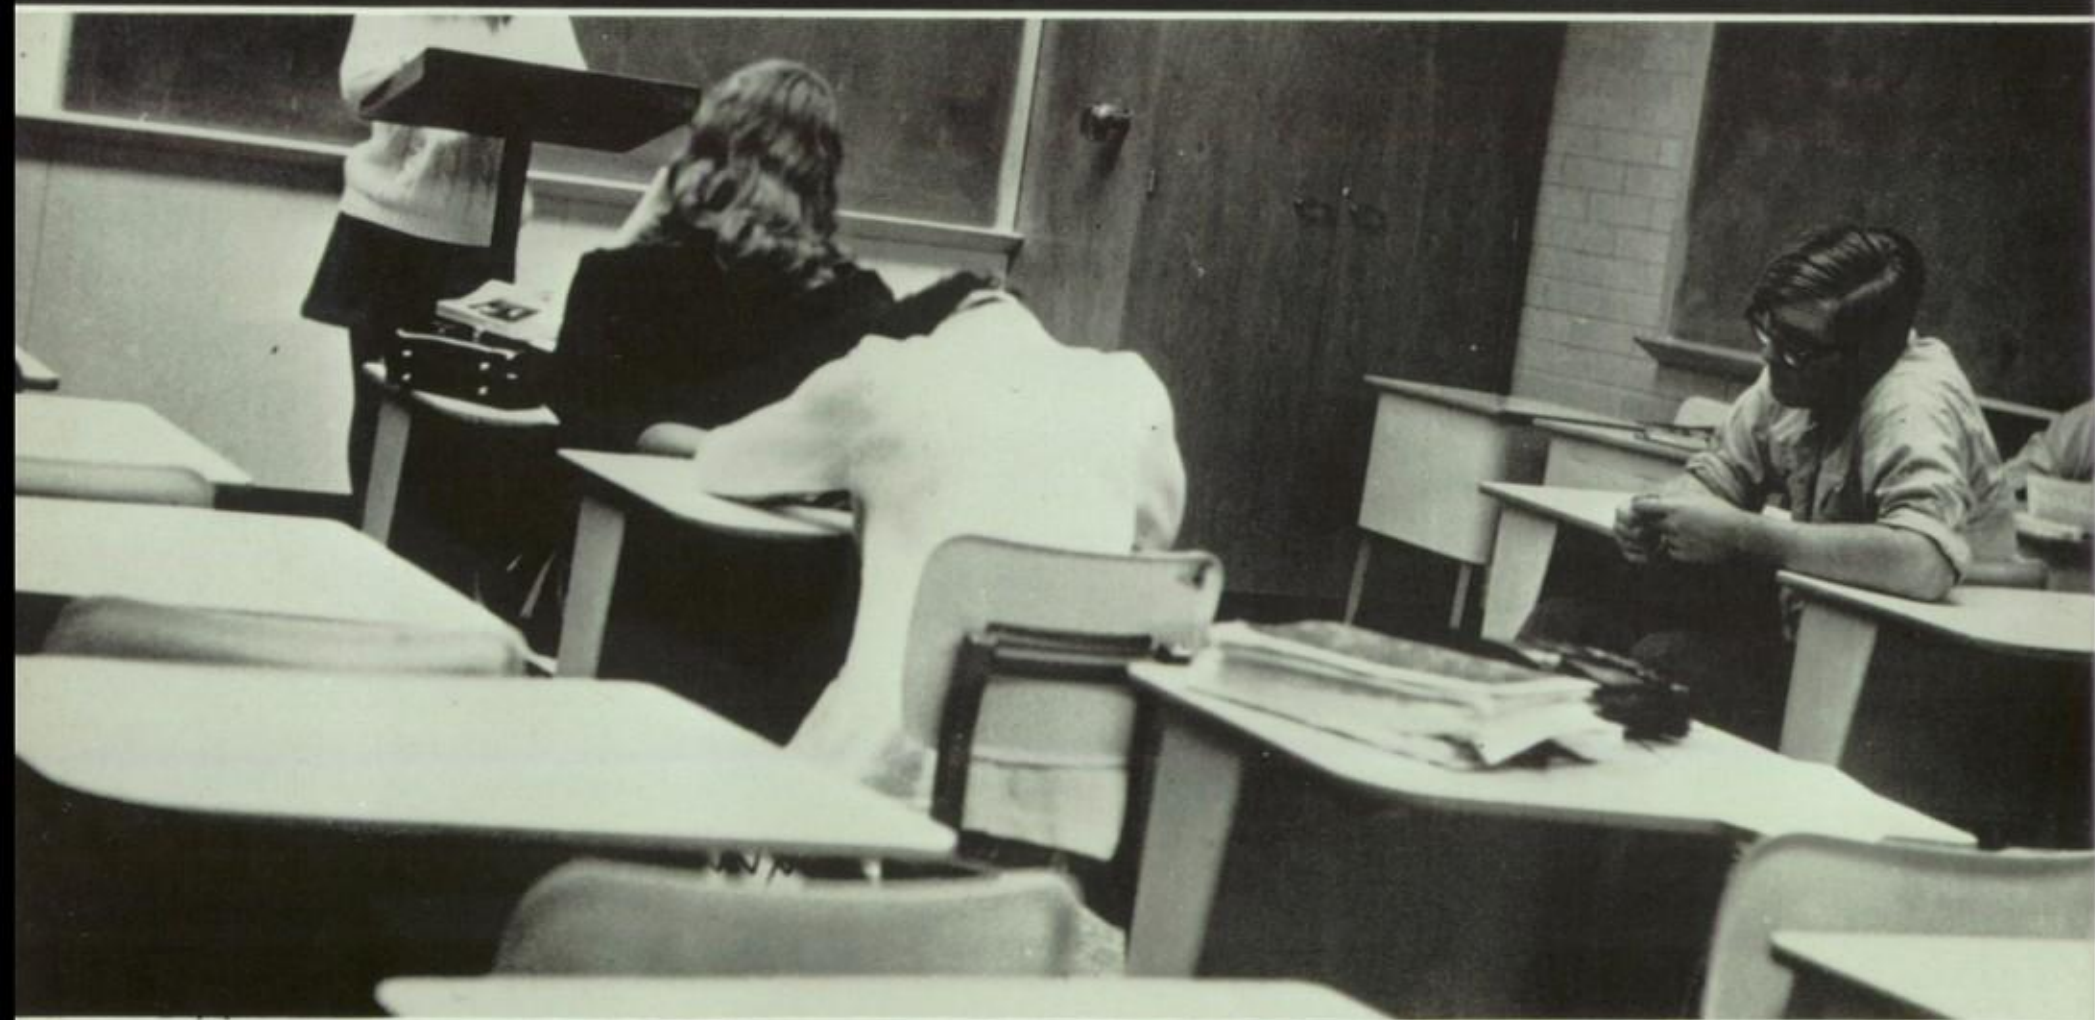

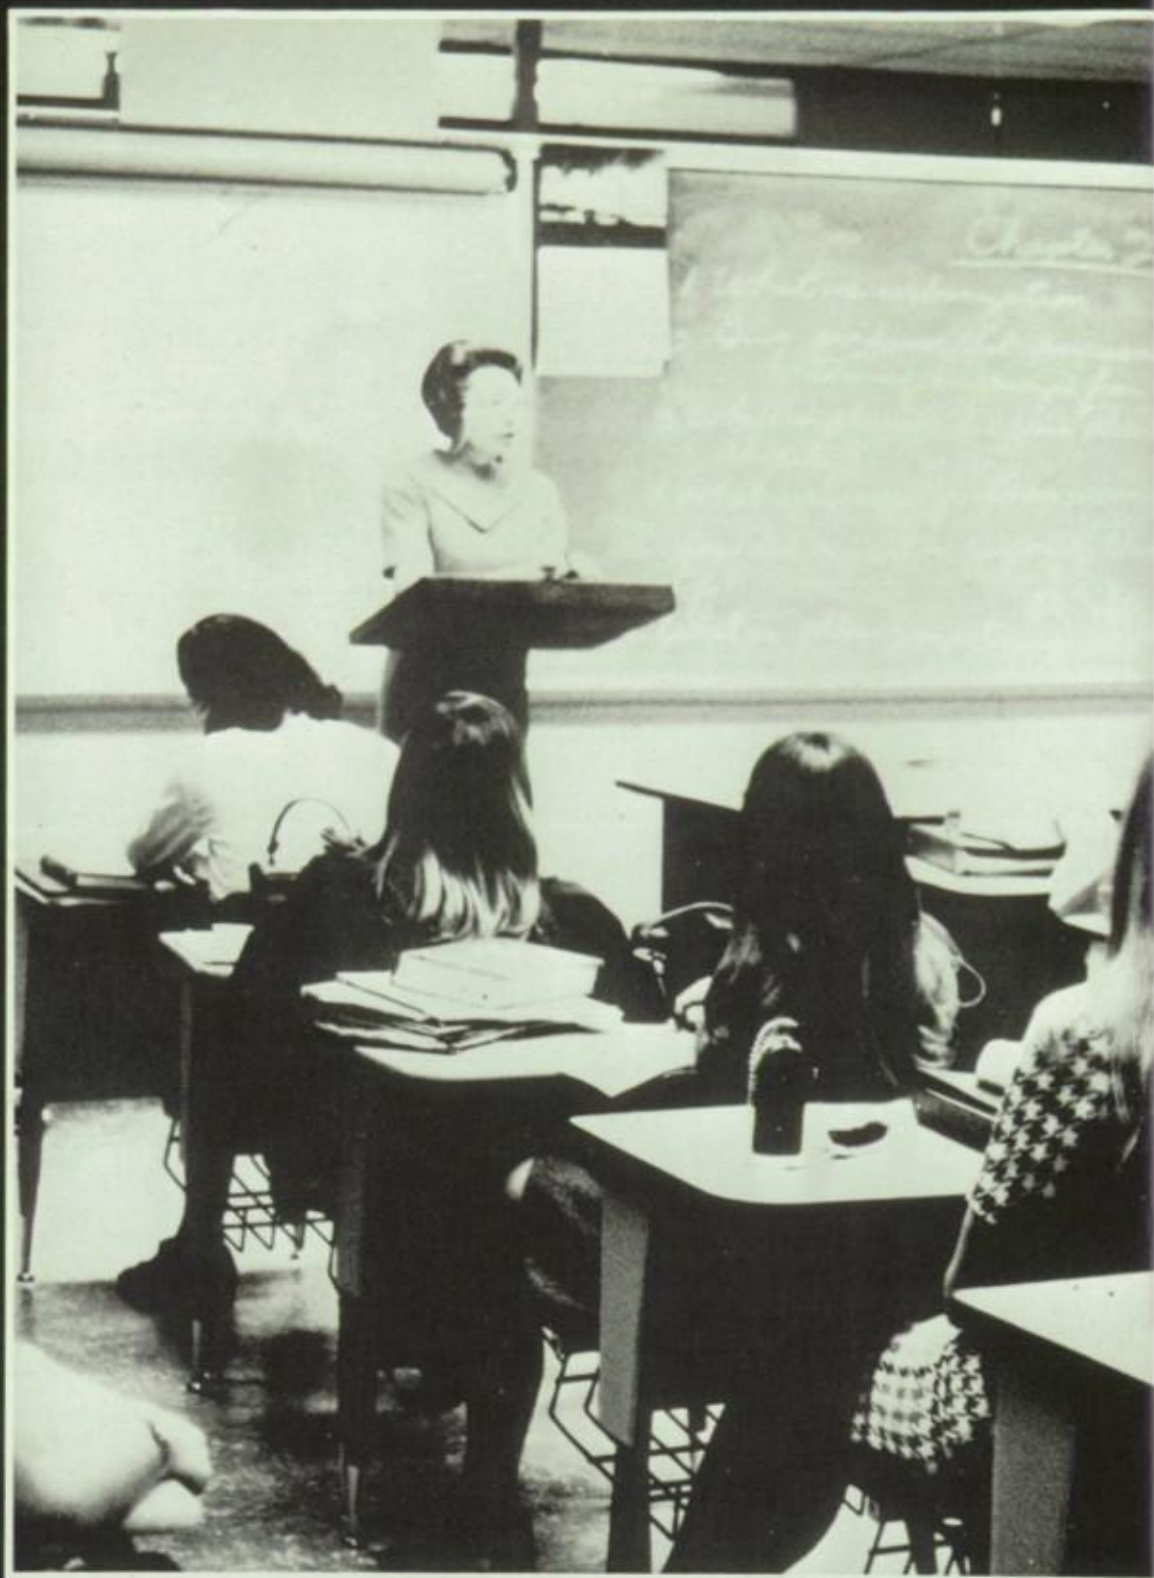

But later
 when there was more time we paused to reflect on the pall and glory
 That enshrouds our world today
 Our manners become more serious
 As the vast problems of our world engulf us.
 We feel weighted down,
 thinking—

The halls were crowded with people before and after classes laughing and thinking Their faces reminded me of shared experiences which identify me with my friends in the halls of Sterling.

I realized that not everyone came to school because he wanted to learn
 Some were reluctant and angry Others desperate to find the gimmick which assured material comforts

Each class held a different significance for each individual
 But always there was a place for him in a chair which waited alone when he did not come.

Some days were just too beautiful
I longed to search and learn in places other than a closed-in room

Places where I could do the things
I enjoyed most
Those days were long.

Those were days
 when, meeting challenges defeating tasks
 I was defeated.
 I tried again
 For this is living Always wanting—never satisfied.

I longed to learn to find out who and why to please and be pleased to love and be loved to be alone and not alone

And today as yesterday
I long and ask
Who am I and why
Why don't they understand?

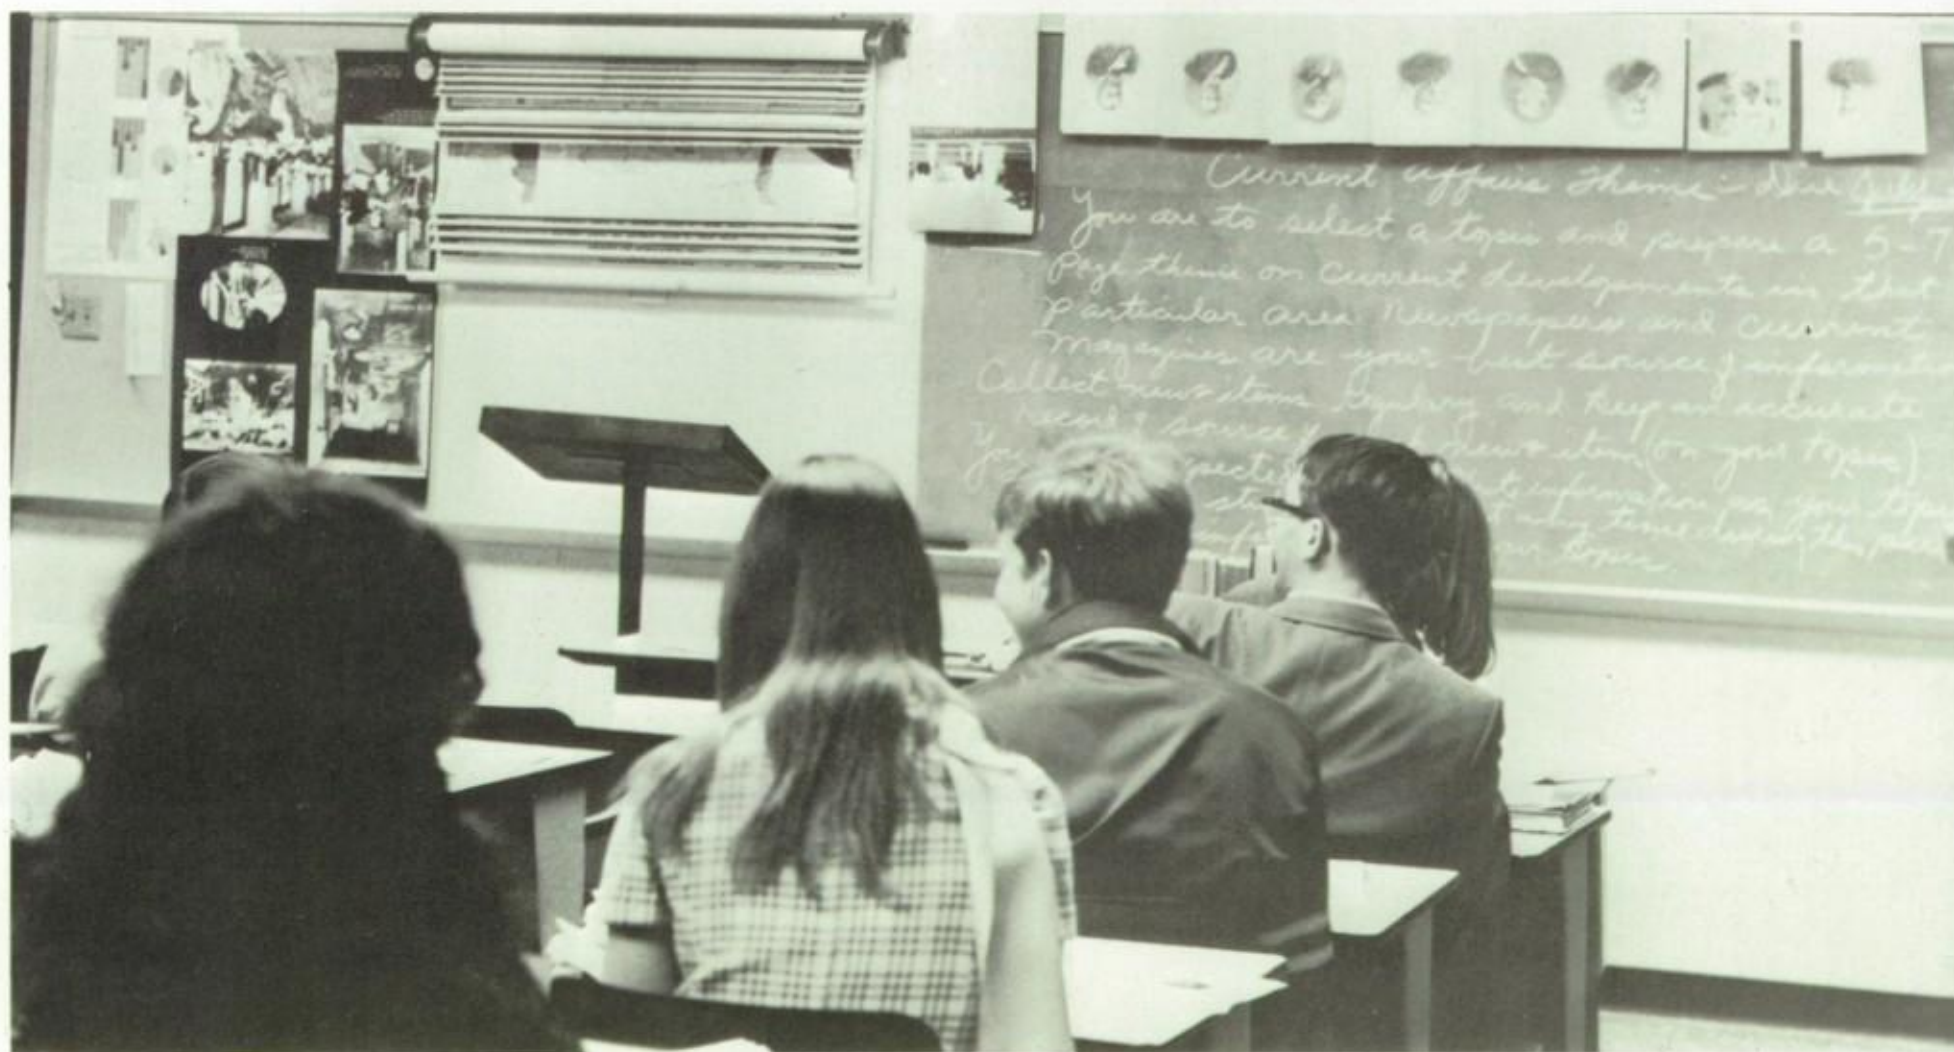

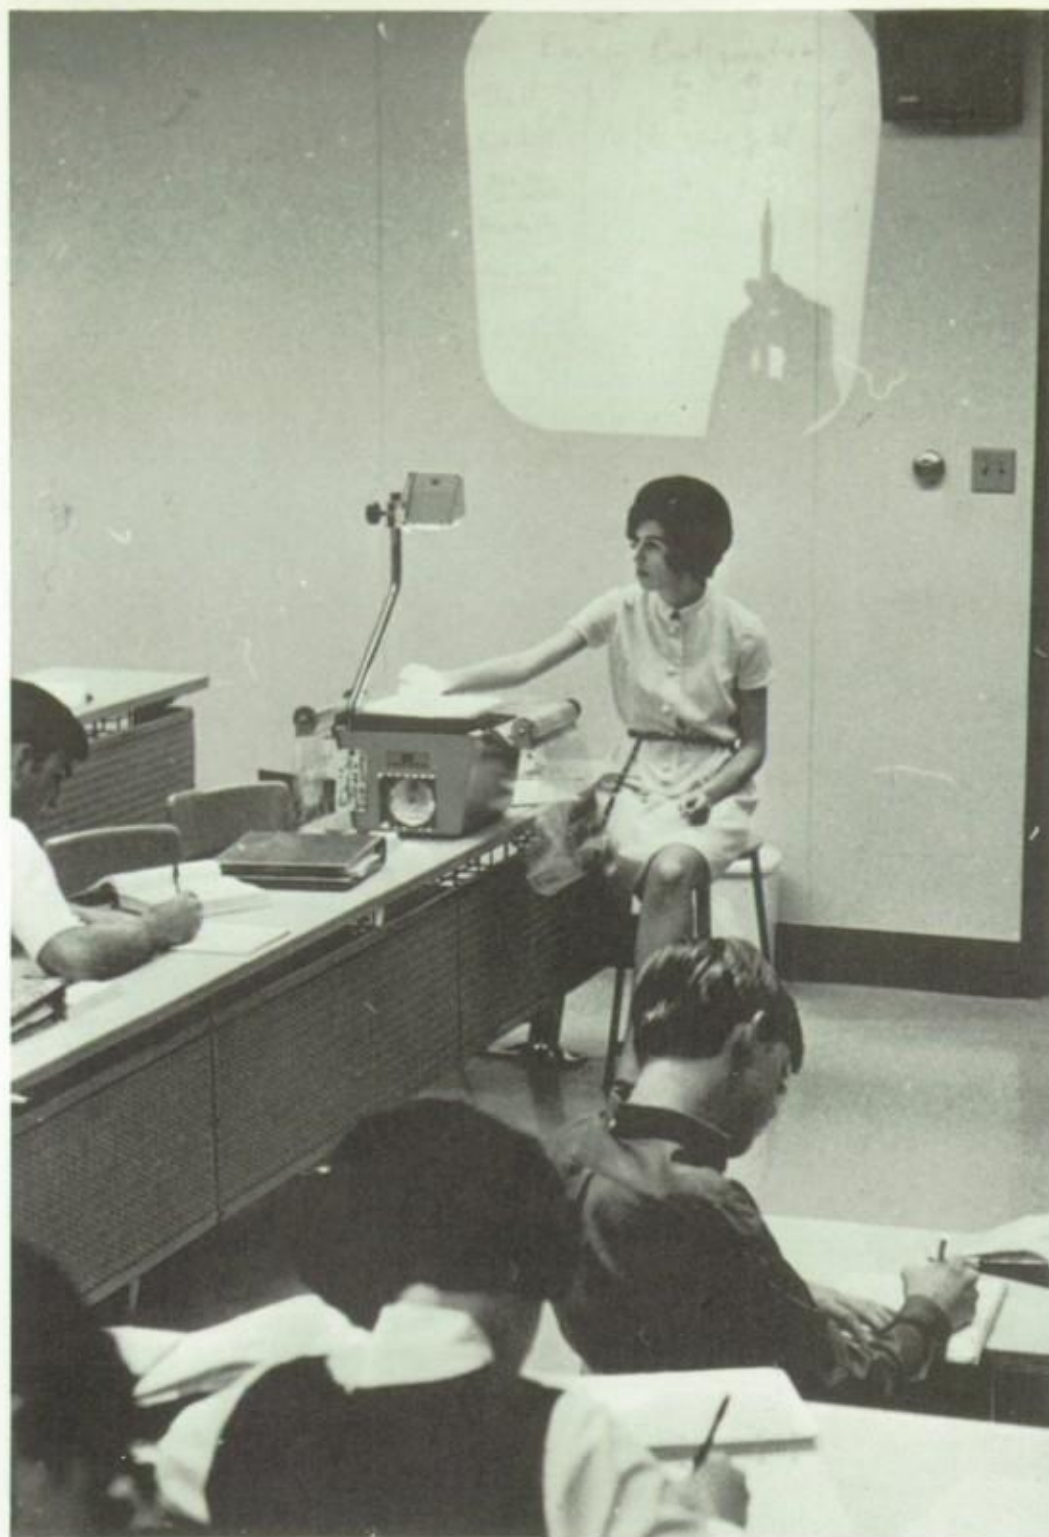

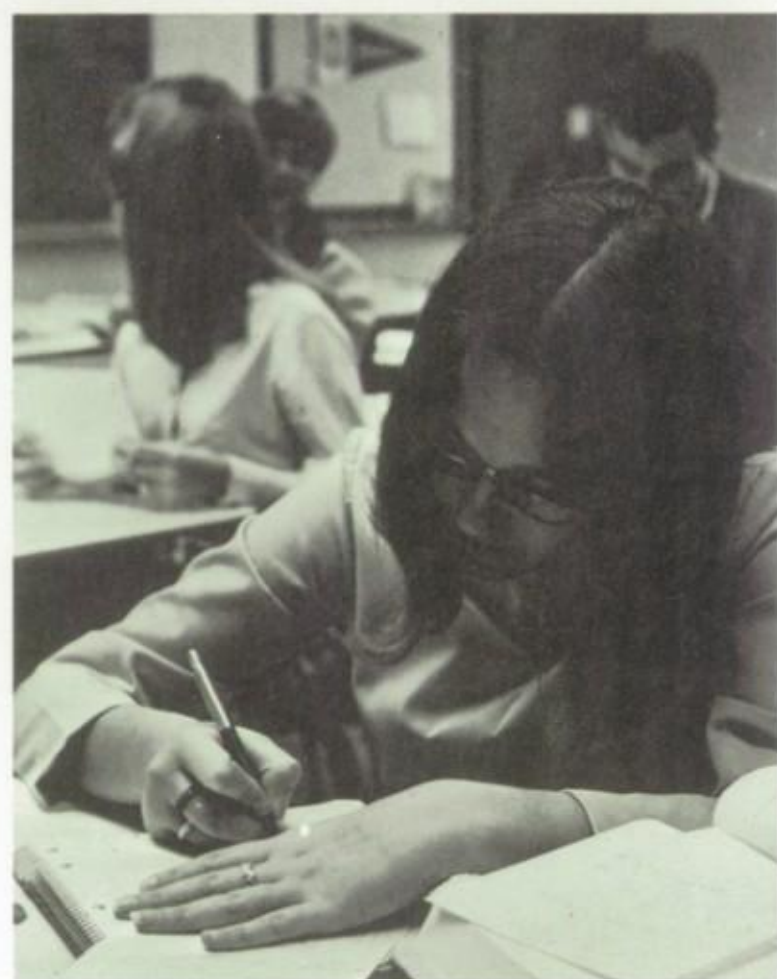

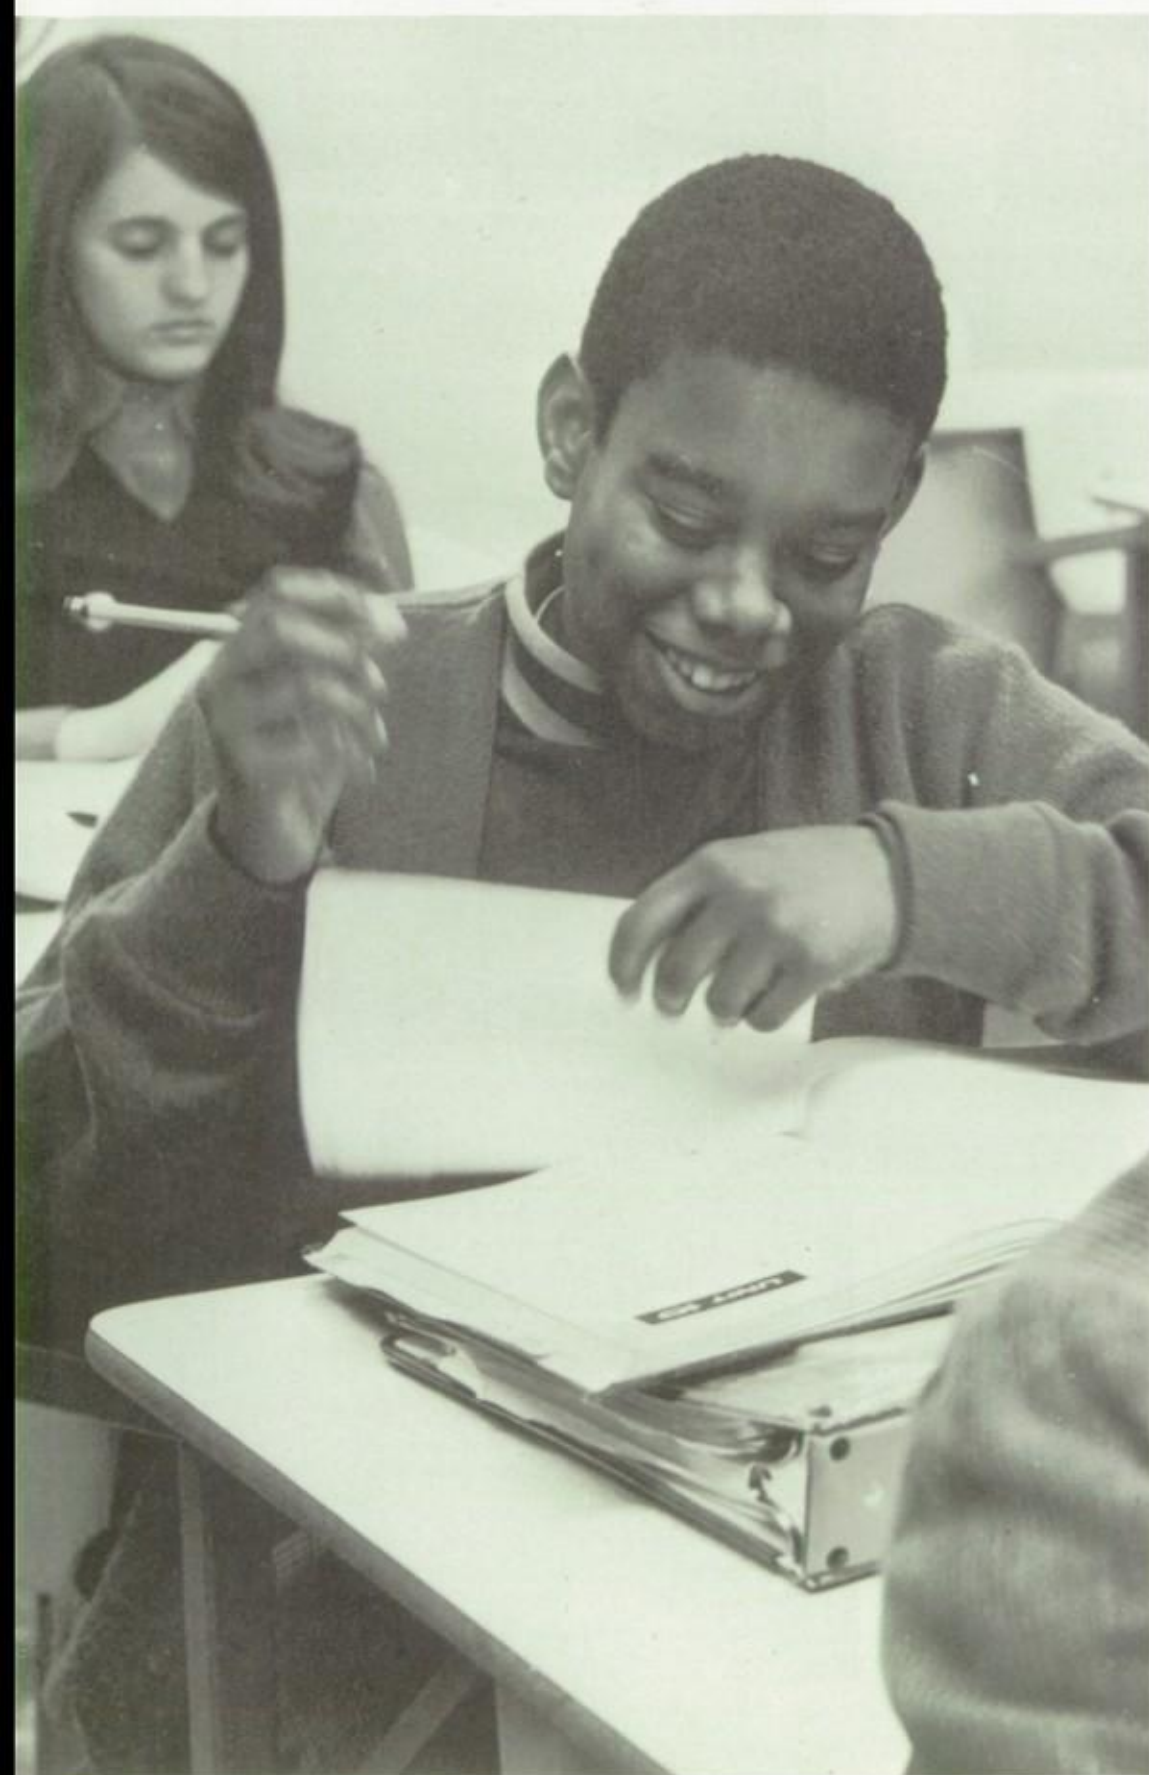

Classes Become Student Life

It took some longer than others to leave the summer behind.
Galveston
was replaced by a routine from 8:15 to 3:15.

And After Classes . . .

Yet it wasn't too long before that routine was transformed into adventures with familiar faces. Classes gradually became more tolerable and eventually fun.

... Comes Fun!

Other events took place outside academic activities.

Fun found time to slip in between physics, German III, analytical geometry Welcomed fun that told everyone that it was time for a break.

The faculty grabbed at the opportunity to "do their thing"
and the students were ready to show hidden wit.

Everyone loves a good time.

Lunch Is Welcomed by All

Finally that lunch bell would ring.
30 minutes of the day for relaxing or maybe voting or ordering a senior ring but definitely ...

... eating!

Clubs Are a Part of Sterling

For those who wanted to belong there was always that club.
The feeling of friends all working together went into each chicken fried that day.

And some said, Secure me from security.

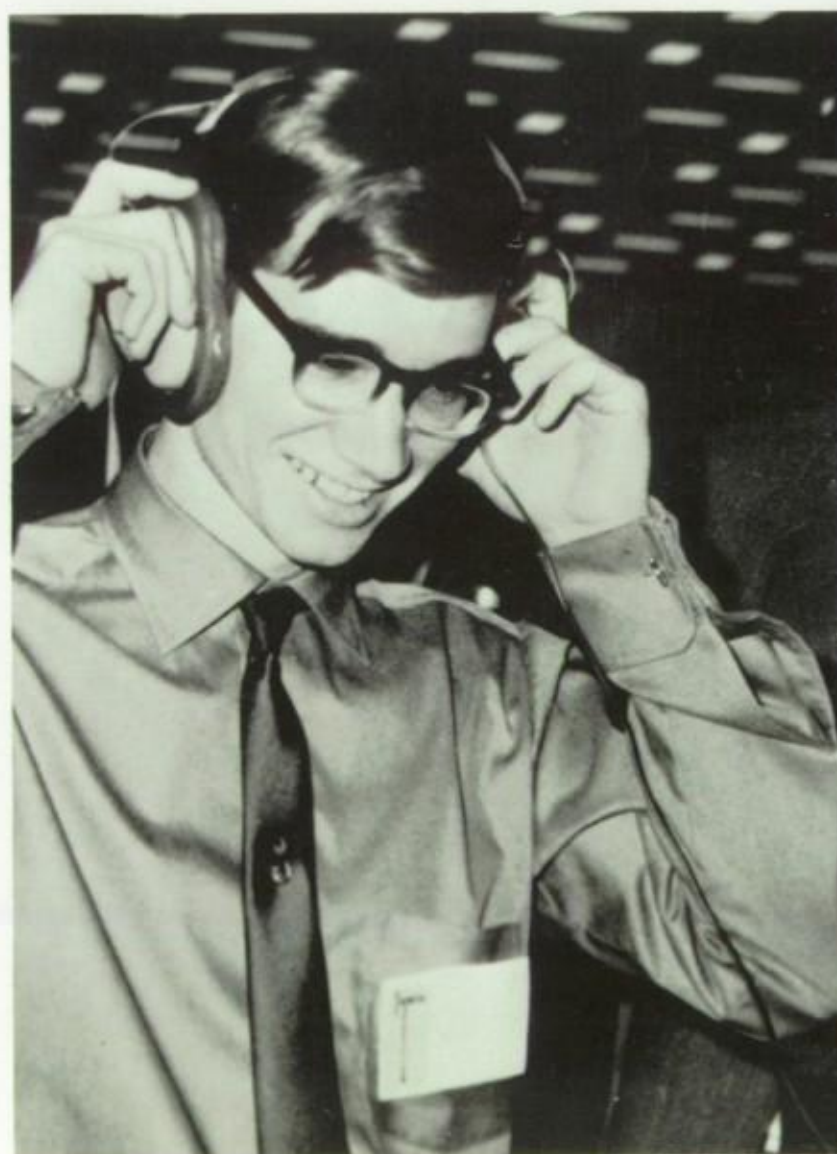

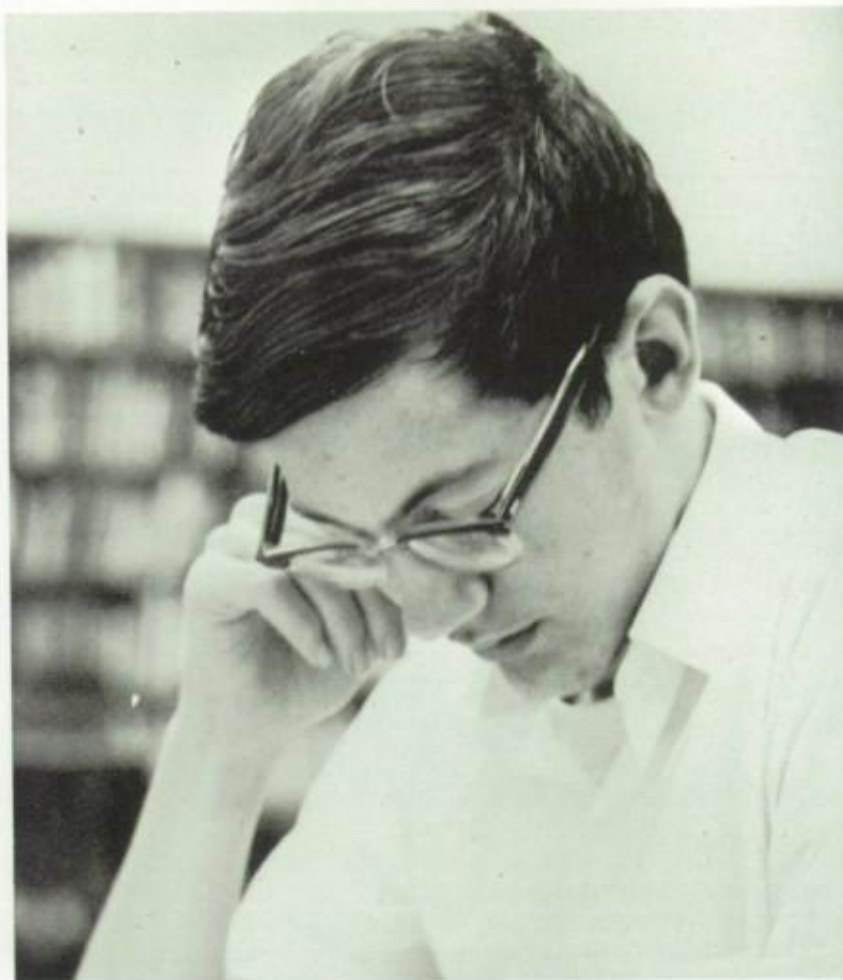

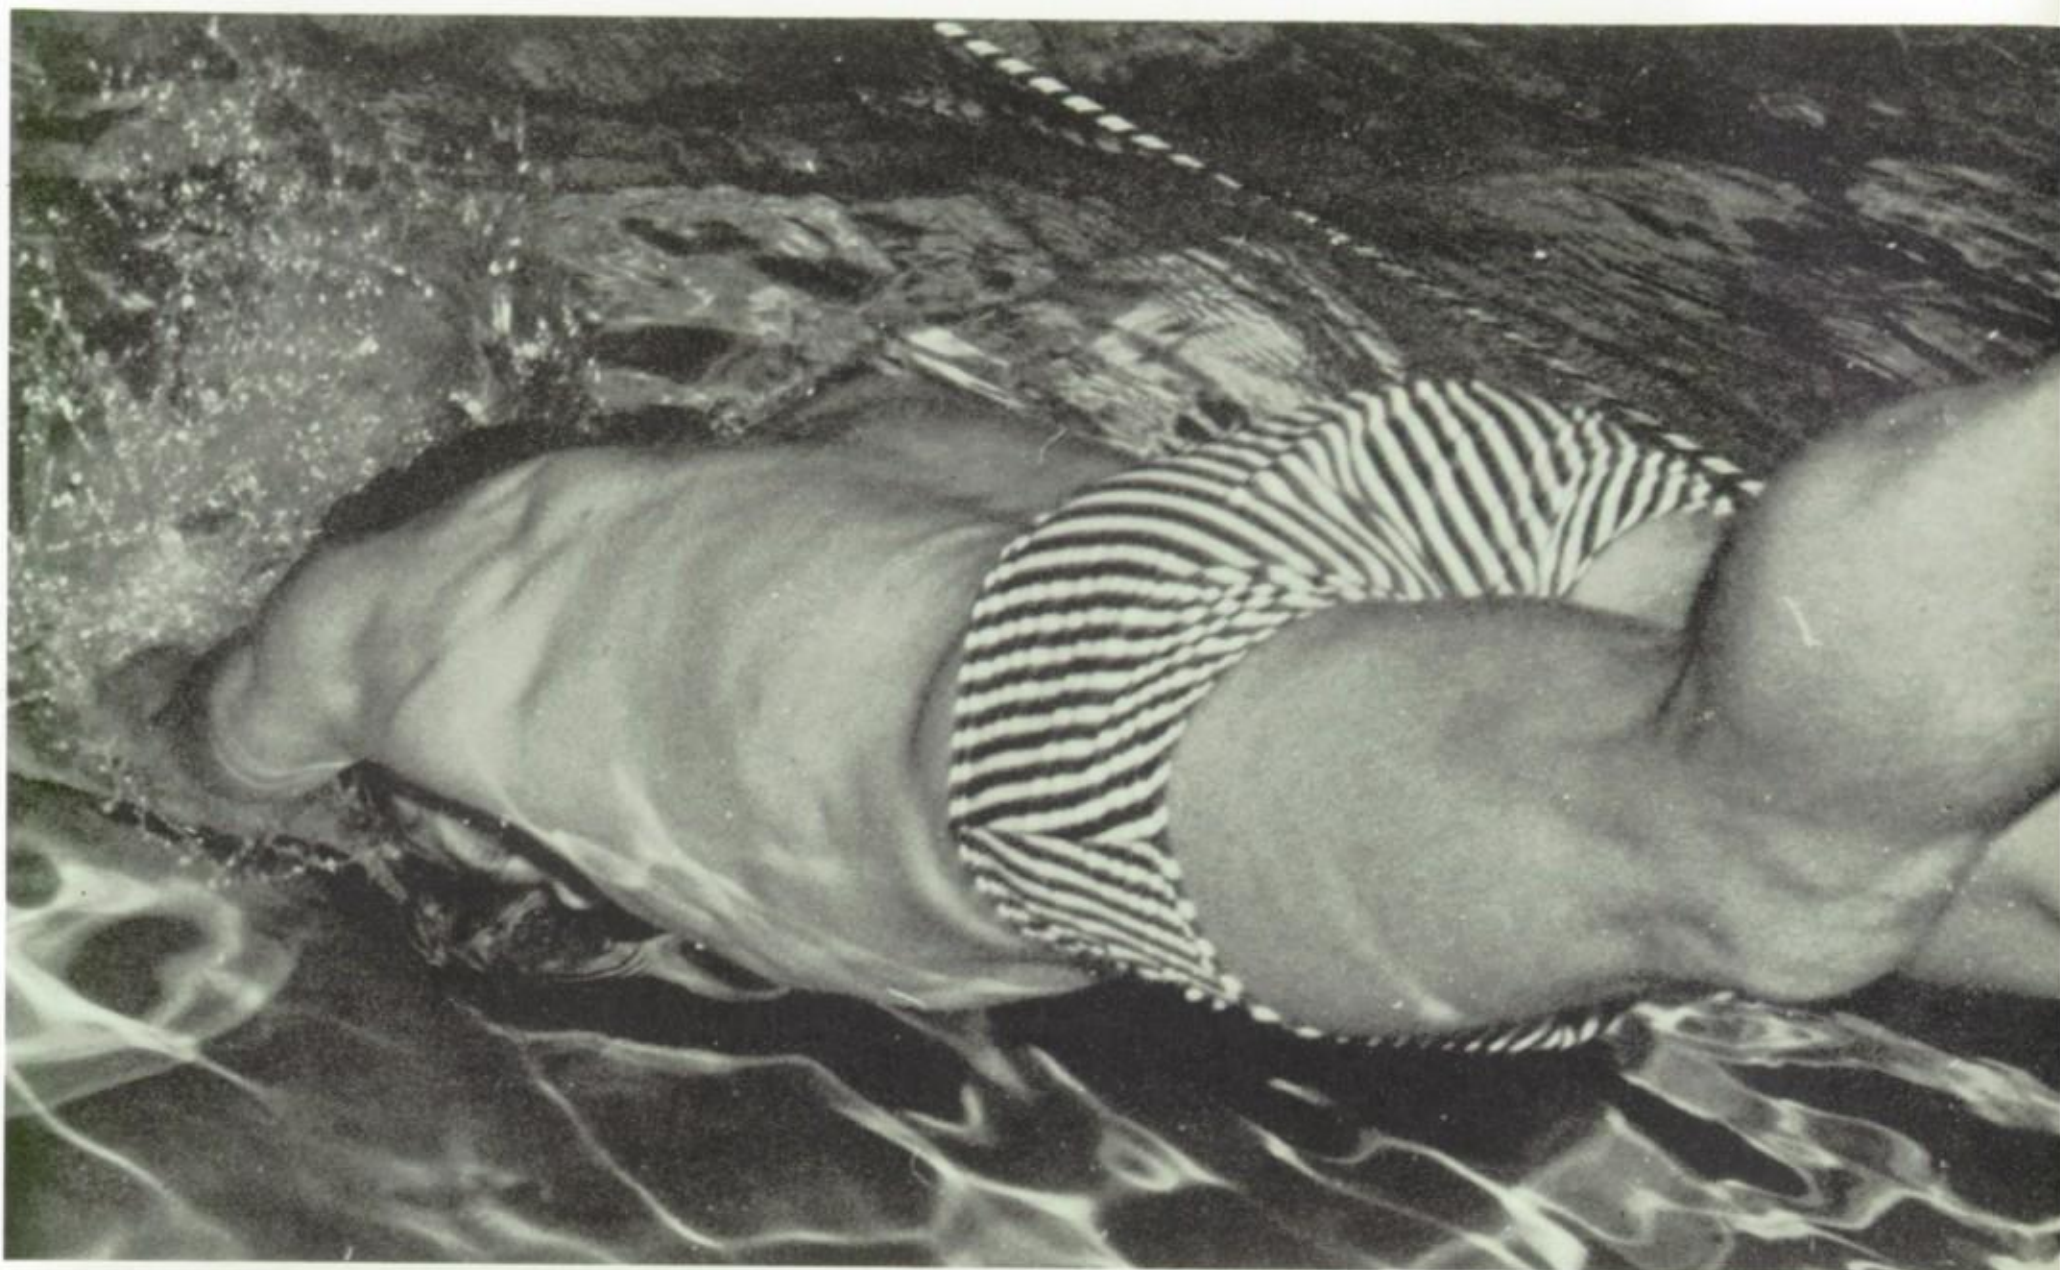

Hair and Skirts: Grow and Shrink

And then there was always that regulation
That said there was a time and place for everything
but not at school
And then there were always those who only wanted to be a little freer

I Must Be Me

Uniqueness is mine.
Whether alone with my thoughts or alive and active in the company of my peers
I must be me.

“Rangers Stand United”

In that something, real not evanescent, which makes us comfortable
today on the Earth
tomorrow in Space.

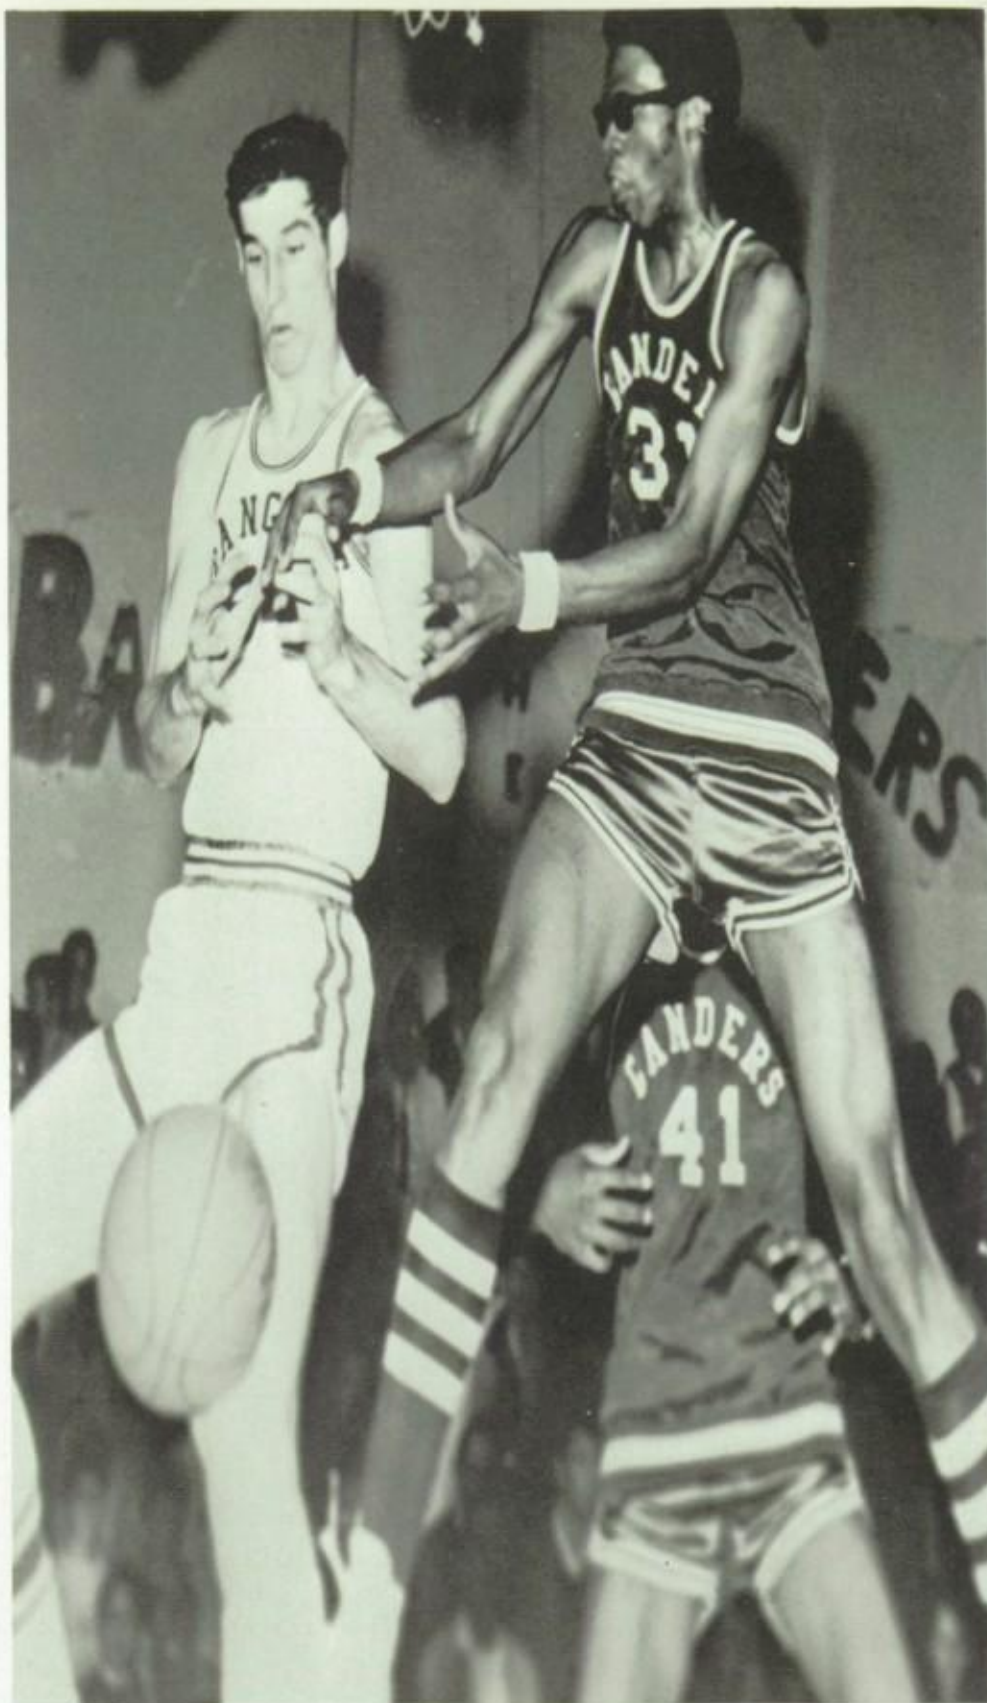

Leadership and Ideals

Tense moments,
 Frayed nerves,
 Anticipation,
 and sometimes Victory.
 But spirit was always there through thick and thin.
 Everyone fought for victory.
 Together we accomplished and together we won.

SPIRIT! We've Got Spirit!

But it took all of us.

THAT WAS THE WEEK THAT WAS . . .

Homecoming 1969 That Is . . .

What a week! Monday—Freshmen built spirit, Tuesday—Sophomores yelled louder, Wednesday—Juniors rattled the cafeteria windows from their own cheering section. Cheerleaders canned a Gander, and the pep rally that afternoon was enough to raise the dead Gander right out of his coffin. Bonfire wood began to pile up. The Octagon Club and a few other boys made sure no cross-town rival was around with a match. O'Brien's was surprised to see so many Sterling students on their parking lot. What a roar! The pep rally continued as the cheerleaders led a snake dance down to the traffic circle.

Thursday—Senior Day and the Senior breakfast. The Octagon Club sponsored a petition to help build spirit. Cheerleaders carried the coffin outside. Students followed the band for the afternoon pep rally. As the bonfire began to blaze that night, spirit rose. An extra yell went up as the coffin with the Gander burned. The enthusiasm went on to the Blue Devil-Suicide Squad game after the bonfire.

Friday marked the climax. The Lioness Club, Rotary Anns, and Antler Club all helped build team's spirit, honoring them with box lunches, special room decorations, and signs in their yards. The last pep rally was the best held all year with the crowning of the winner of the "Cutest Legs Contest," Mike Donahue. Who would think the auditorium walls could vibrate as the faculty cheerleaders led two yells? Sterling was united against a common cause.

The week's excitement drew to a close with the Homecoming Dance, and the crowning of the homecoming queen.

a) At 11:30, Mr. Cravey took the microphone and announced the court: Mary Duvall, fourth runner-up; Stefanni Snead, third runner-up; Scottie Worden, second runner-up; Lois Sampson, first runner-up.

b) Kandy Campbell was crowned Homecoming Queen for 1969 by Sharon Arsement, last year's queen.

c) Kandy, escorted by Jeff Adams led the next dance after her walk around the commons.

'Tis the Season to be Jolly

The Distributive Education Club once again provided the commons with a huge tree with lights and music that filled Sterling with the Christmas spirit. Students paused briefly as they crossed the commons to enjoy the cheer of the season. If teachers were in the right mood, doors were left open and carols provided background for study. Santa Claus visited Sterling at an assembly and sat outside the cafeteria during lunch to give candy to good boys and girls.

There was a short assembly in the commons presented by the D.E. club. Afterwards students walked to class singing Jingle Bells. The class officers also sponsored a Christmas assembly the last day before the holidays, which told the Christmas story. Santa Claus led the audience in singing carols after the bell choir had performed.

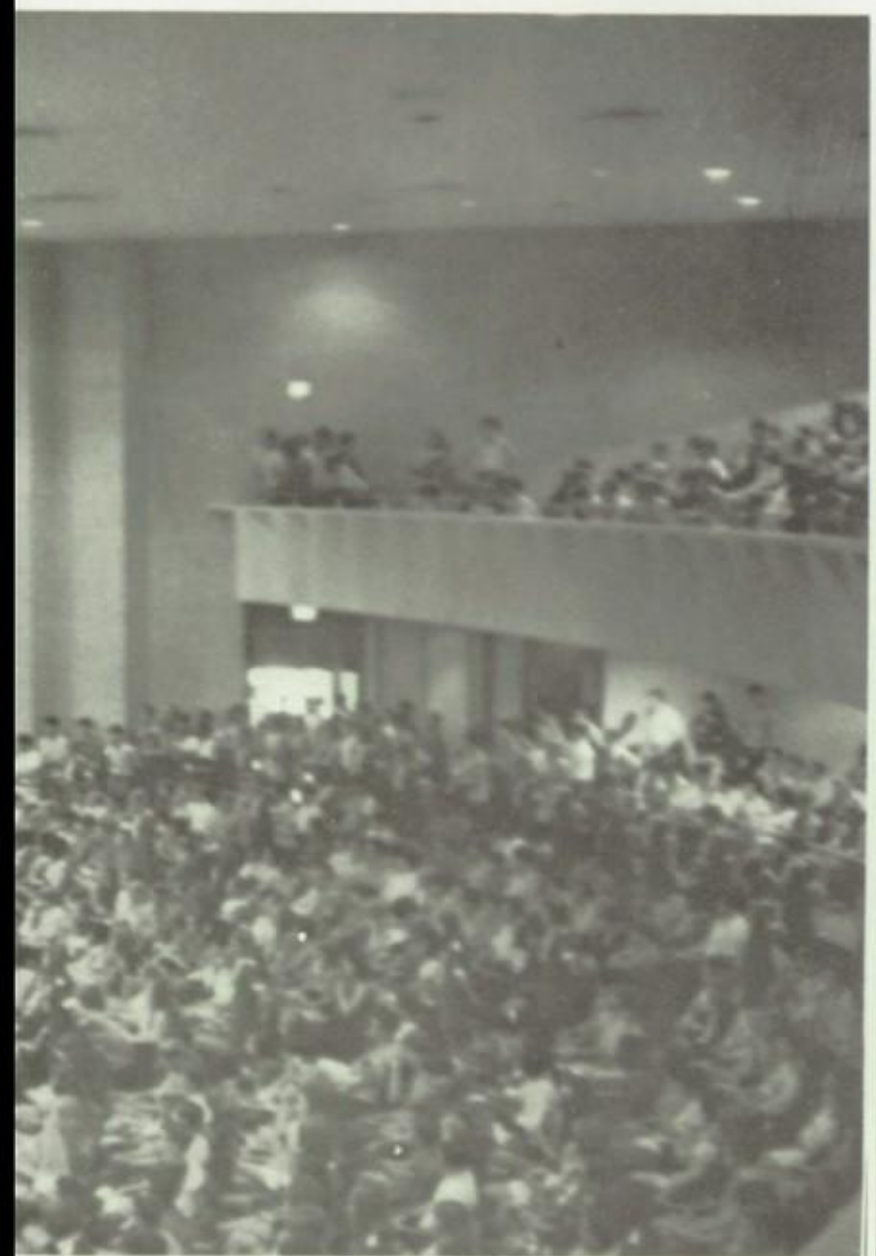

Assemblies Range from Pep Rally to Science Demonstration

With its new assembly schedule, Sterling was able to bring special speakers and entertainers to the students. A wide variety of talent was displayed which offered different types of enrichment. Though some assemblies were just plain fun, others opened new fields to those interested. Fifth period was one class generally looked forward to.

Eat Drink and Be Merry

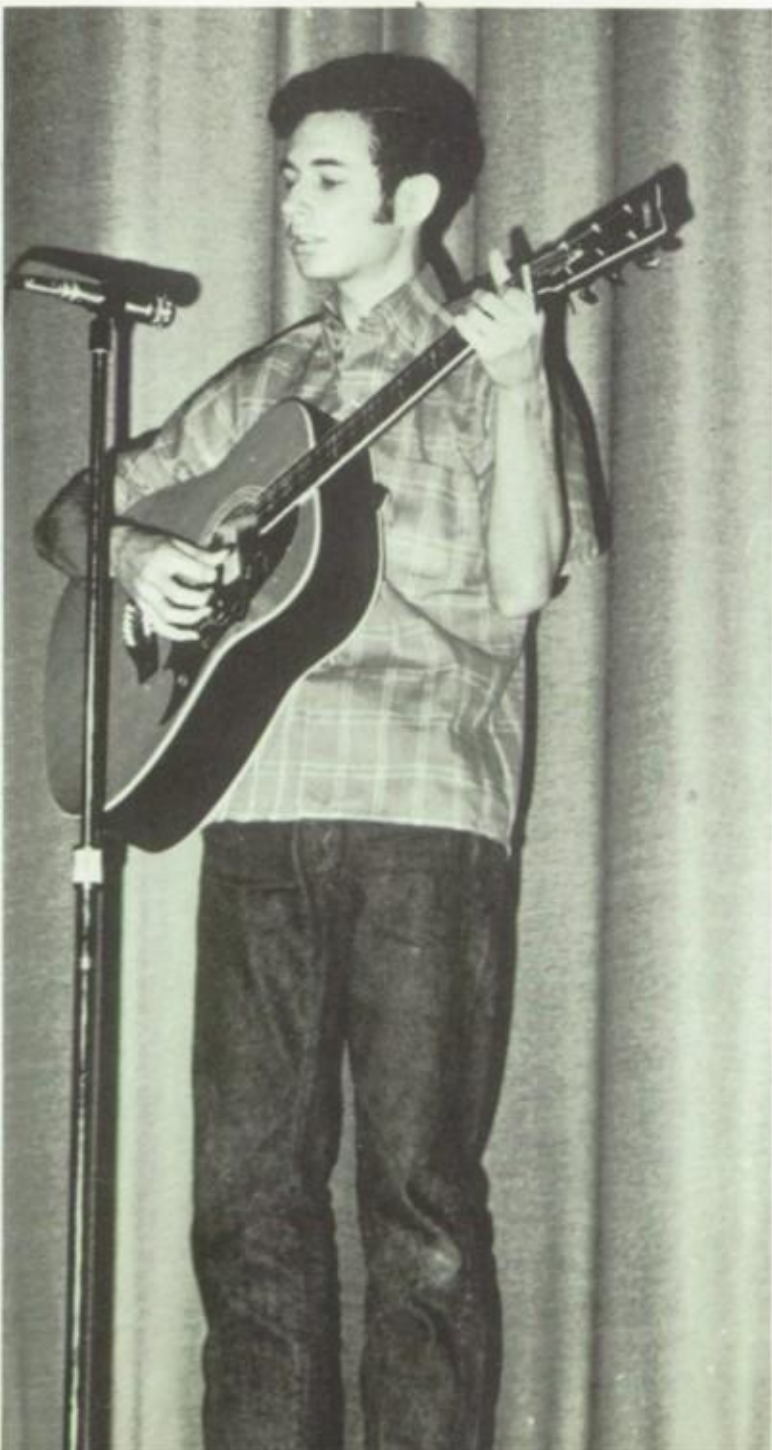

Banquets are not only a place a person goes when he wants a free meal, but also a source of entertainment. The many different banquets that have been a part of Sterling have provided the students, faculty, and guests with fun, honors, and excitement.

Sterling Hosts Good Sportsmanship League

Ross Sterling, the president school for District 23-4A Good Sportsmanship League, hosted the spring meeting. Before the business meeting in the afternoon, delegates and sponsors from the district schools registered and mingled in the living room of the homemaking department. The general assembly which followed opened with the pledge of allegiance led by Cheryl Cherry, sophomore delegate, and a prayer by Alan Beauchamp, junior delegate. Daryl Start, student council president, introduced Mrs. Brown, who welcomed everyone, and Mayor Glen Walker, who gave a speech on good sportsmanship. Then the entertainment began with the swing group from the choir. Mike Schillaci sang and Louis Tanner spoke, before the group from the band began. Scottie Worden, acting president for the League, then outlined the rest of the day as lunch in the cafeteria, tours led by student council members, and the business meeting in the auditorium.

With Favorite People Are Favorite Things

Not only do we have our favorite people, but also our favorite things.
Everyone has his own place to go

In the small radius we occupy we find these things ourselves.

The 1970 Governor's Cabinet was presented to the student body at Sterling's Inaugural Assembly. The Stage Band provided background music. Melody George sang "Yesterday." Later she was joined by Dale Martin to sing "I'll Take Romance." Although class representatives were elected earlier in the week, the selection of Governor and First Lady was a surprise.

Parents' Night — Education '69

Education '69 began with a short assembly, where parents were greeted by Mrs. Brown and the administrative faculty plus student delegates from different organizations. Parents then visited teachers, looked at displays, and even participated in sports in the girls' gym. Many noticed how drastically school has changed since they were students. New methods of teaching, such as tape recorders with listening stations and mathematical puzzles drew particular interest from many parents. A one-act play could be seen in the drama room and the art department distributed small art items. A concert by the Meistersingers and Concert Band brought the night to a finish. And as one teacher said later, "Parents' Night certainly was good this year."

Debbie Davison Crowned Relay Queen

Sterling captured the crown for the third time in four years at the Baytown Relays. Debbie Davison and her court, two duchesses from Robert E. Lee and two from Sterling, were presented during the finals Saturday night, April 11. They presented trophies to the track winners, many of whom were members of the Sterling Track Team which placed second—one point behind Deer Park.

George Gentry crowned the queen, who was chosen by A. J. Foyt from the pictures of all the girls. These candidates, representing clubs and classes from Sterling and Robert E. Lee, were introduced at assemblies at both schools.

Hearts Thrill to the "Sound of Music"

Casting the play was a job—tension and anticipation. Blocking was work, time, and tedium. Many mistakes and sore throats; tight nerves. Line-off and real rehearsals. Long hours and lost sleep. This describes the first two and a half months of "Sound of Music." Most people did not even know it was going on. Then, curtain time. The parents, the friends, the school, and the town were all watching. Prop and set crews were ready. All the lights were set and the make-up and costumes were all intact. Everyone was in place. OPEN THE CURTAIN.

Maria (Debbie Davison) is a nun who has trouble conforming to the rules of the Abbey. The Mother Abbess (Debbie Calhoon) sends her to the home of Captain Georg von Trapp (Tim Stone) where she is a governess for his seven children: Liesl (Lisa Pope), Fredrick (Keith Heiman), Louisa (Patti Rosser), Brigitta (Debbie Smith), Kurt (Danny Welch), Marta (Chris Wheelis), and Gretl (Billye Hooper). She also meets the Captain's fiancée, Elsa Schraider (Sue Hale), and his best friend, Max Detweiler (Kim Martin). As the story ends, Maria and Georg have married and to prevent the Germans from taking him into their Navy, the von Trapps climb the mountains into Switzerland. The curtain closes. The band strikes up Do-Re-Mi, and as the curtain call begins the audience is completely on its feet. As the curtain closes the final time, a scream goes up from the cast and crew and all know that it has been worth it all.

1970 Awards Banquet

Sterling Students Honored

The 1970 Sterling Honors Banquet was held April 23, in the school cafeteria. The National Honor Society planned the banquet, making decorations, sending invitations, and other preparations. Attending the banquet were NHS members, award recipients, school board officials, and award presentors. Donny Turner, president of the NHS, served as master of ceremonies. An address was given by Dr. H. J. Schneider. Special music was provided at the banquet by some of Sterling's top musicians: Gene Lovering, Bill Swick, John Jackson, Dale Martin, and Kelly Whalen as drummer. A rollicking atmosphere was added to the occasion as the audience joined the band in singing the refrain of Alice's Restaurant. A patriotic declamation followed given by Beverly Smith.

The Senior Prom — A Night to Remember

Reflections from a whirling silver ball and flickering candlelight transformed Sylvan Beach into a night to remember for Sterling's 1970 Prom.

The terrace and dance floor were crowded with couples talking, laughing, and dancing. The Black Well provided the music which found many of the chaperons "holding their ears." At eleven o'clock the ring turning ceremony took place in traditional style. Then came the grand march through the ring with the president of the senior class and his date leading the way. This was followed by one last dance before everyone took off for a supper, breakfast, and home.

Sterling Cheerleaders

It was evident that the cheerleaders kept busy wrapping goal posts, putting up posters, planning pep rallies, and building spirit all year long, but there was a great deal of work that went on behind the scenes.

Plans began in May to make the next year great. The cheerleaders went to Southern Methodist University in August to compete against cheerleaders from high schools all over the state of Texas. They brought home an honorable mention, a third place, and two second place ribbons, as well as many spirit builders.

Though Wins Were Scarce, Team Shows Determination

In many teams there lies a hidden quality never seen by the spectator. This year's team showed fine drive and determination though the scoreboard seldom indicated this. These things alone do not make a team; it takes many hours of hard work and team desire. To have all these things would add together to form a consistent winner.

Many of this year's players know the pain of defeat all too well, but hope that an idea of winning is planted in the minds of the underclassmen makes it all worth the expense. The traditions started now will hopefully carry many Sterling teams to victory.

Even though this season had its moments of despair, there were many humorous and enlightening moments. The blow-out on the trip to Port Neches told a story of things to come. One of the best sellers would be a book of exercises, assorted aches, and pulled muscles never heard of. The talent revealed at half-time should have been explored. The savage handling of the Cokes could have made blood run cold. The fine moves displayed by the heroes of our team while they headed for the water fountain was really an inspiration.

Throughout the year, this team proved that teamwork and hard practice do not make a winner. We all know that each of these athletes played his best every Thursday and Friday night, but on some occasions this was to no avail.

Each year after the final game the seniors, who will never wear a Sterling uniform again, often reveal by their emotions how much the game of football and the general feeling of playing on a team is to each one of them.

Rangers Dribble, Jump, and Shoot to Victory

The basketball teams at Sterling have always been "above par." They were again this year. The way the varsity played during predistrict games led many people to believe that Sterling had another district title, but a weak finish in district play caused Sterling to end up in fourth place, only a few games behind the winner.

The team had an extra boost in the middle of the season when Jerry Hance became eligible for varsity play. With him the starting line-up became Jerry, Mark Ocher, Ted Hazelwood, Carl Barnett, and Alan Beauchamp. Carl Barnett was high point man.

Rangers Hustle Their Way Past Ganders

The Ranger basketball team looked like a team on its way to the district championship when Sterling beat Lee. The players really thought they could do it and their fans knew they could do it. The Rangers kept a ten point lead until the closing moments of the game when the Ganders came within one point.

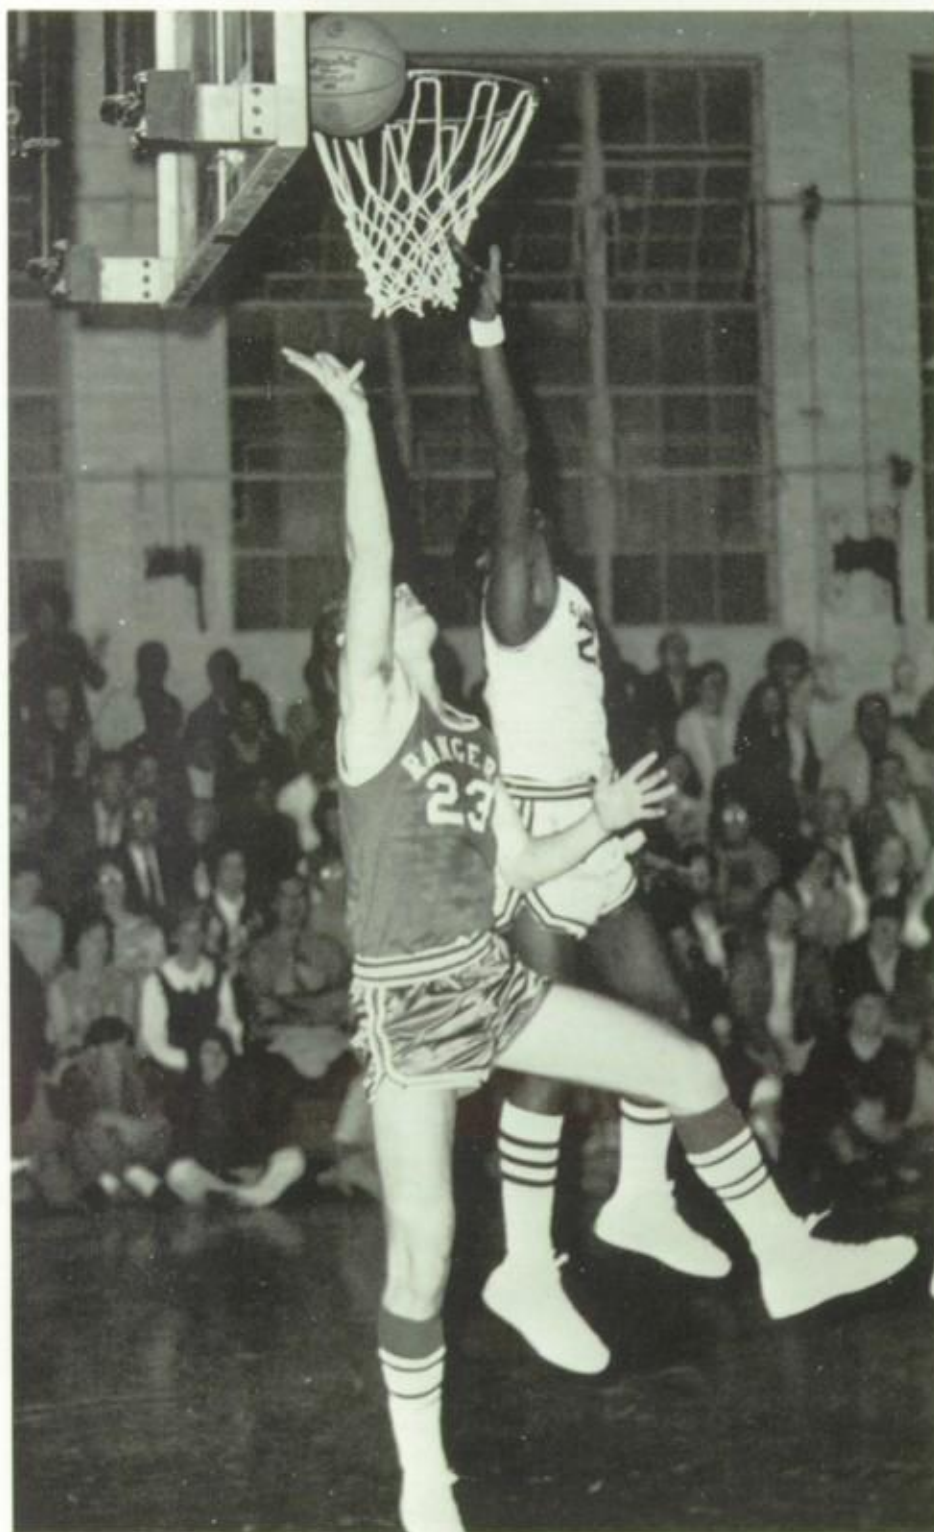

a. Alan Beauchamp got a late start going up for a rebound, but he was still able to get control of the ball.

Cross Country Follows Tradition of Winning

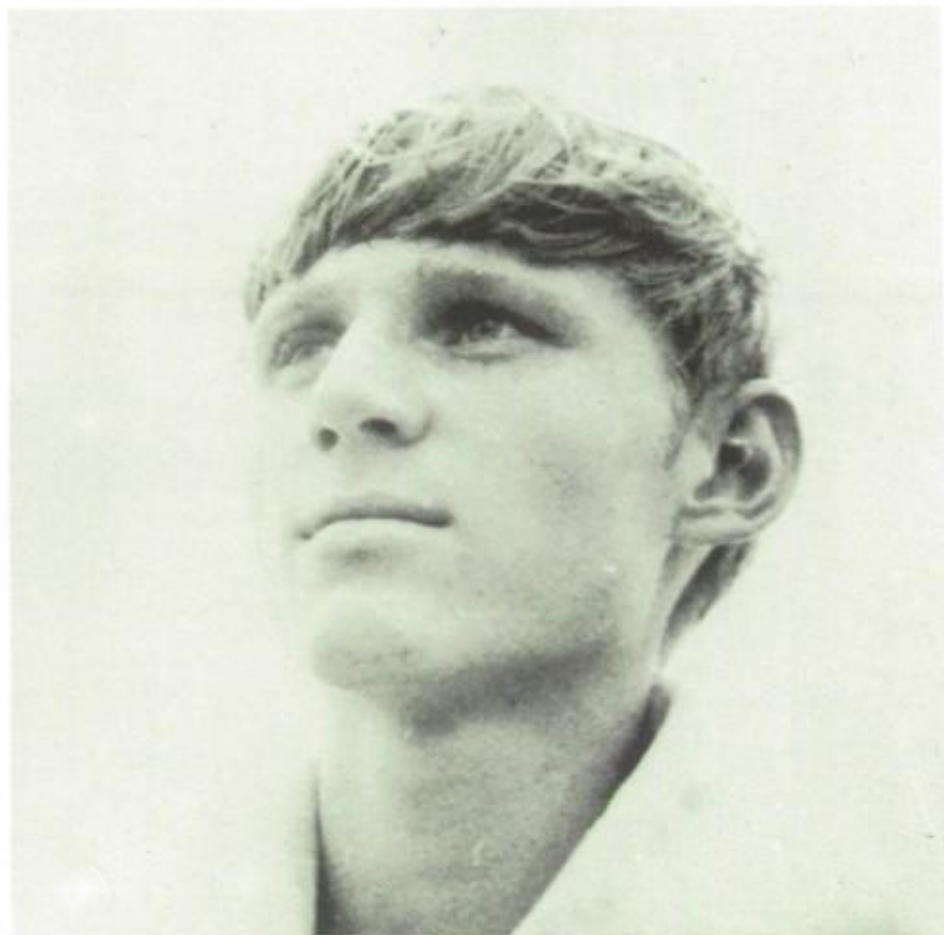

When a young man takes the great step to becoming an athlete, the first things he is taught is to be a good sport, to do his best, and to endure the pain of losing. Then, behind closed doors, he has pounded into his head the one magic word, "WIN." His mind is set in a trance toward winning.

The trance over the cross-country team, cast by Coach Drew Dunlap, has become Sterling's longest. It lasted through the practice meets, through the season, and on up to the state meet, where the team ran to a second place.

Coach Dunlap had help in rallying his team. The team captains, Robert Destin and John Strown, convinced the team that it was best and it performed as if it were. The runners are John Strown, Robert Destin, Ricky Seally, David Witzel, Raymond Clements, Ricky Sherlund, and Clifford Hunt.

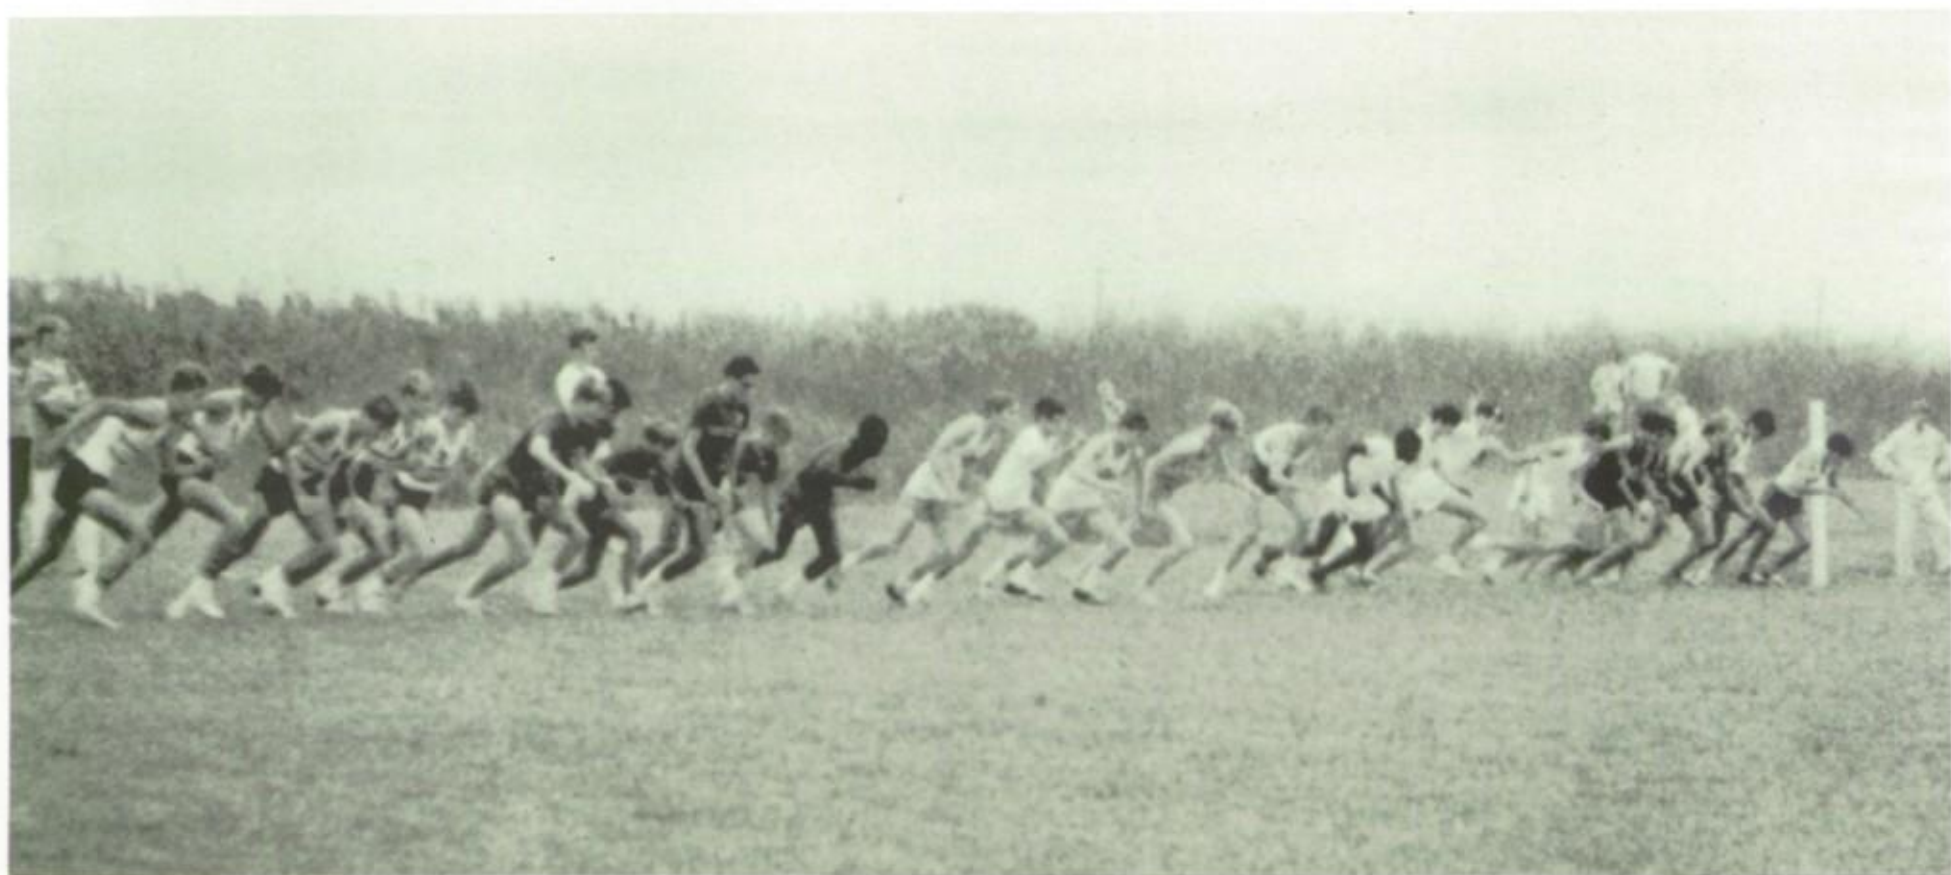

The ingredients for a winning season are found within the team itself. A runner wants to win badly enough to kick on the wrong lap or run the last half of the race with a broken foot. It was this kind of devotion to the team that helped Sterling make a name for itself in the cross-country world, win district, go on to the state meet, and to follow a tradition of winning.

District Champs

Being able to start or finish a race of two miles is an accomplishment within itself. But being able to run that distance in less than ten minutes is a feat that anyone may be proud of. John Strown, Ricky Sherlund, Robert Destin, David Witzel, and Ricky Seally broke or came within three seconds of this goal.

The District Champs

The Sterling Track Team entered the district meet with the memories of a one point defeat at the Baytown Relays. They were determined not to let a team beat them by one point again. With this philosophy they were able to run (and throw and jump) away with the meet by a forty-seven point margin.

The field events came through with thirty-nine points to put Sterling in good position for the finals. Places were won by three pole vaulters, three broad jumpers, a shot putter, a discus thrower, and a high jumper. Of the competitors in the field events, two qualified for the regional track meet. They were Leo Haggerty in the broad jump and Dan Alan McClure in the pole vault.

At the start of the finals of the running events, Sterling was still two points behind Lee. The four-forty yard relay was the first event and Sterling, who was favored to win it, was only able to finish third. Things looked even worse after their sixth place finish in the eight-eighty yard run, but a strong one-two finish in the 120 yard hurdles put Sterling in first, where they stayed for the remainder of the meet.

a. This is what the Sterling Track Team looked like after they captured the District Championship.

b. After four years, Coach Drew Dunlap is finally able to see the District Trophy belonging to Sterling.

c. The mile relay team was tired but happy after taking third.

d. Bobby Littlefield was the district, and season, high point man.

Field Events Take to the Air

a. Dan Alan McClure was the first state qualifier for Sterling. He is shown clearing his state qualifying vault of fourteen feet.
b. Layne Ramsey also helped bring fame to Sterling pole vaulters by clearing thirteen feet, six inches.
c. Leo Haggerty, a regional qualifier, jumped twenty-one feet seven inches for a school record.
d. The first four-year letterman in Sterling Track, Bruce Martin, captured fourth in the long jump at District.

The only events in a track meet which require teammanship are relays. Individuals are able to win all other events on their own without the help of others, but a relay requires four men to run, hand-off, and try their hardest. It took long hours for Sterling to get their hand-offs "down," but it paid off for they dropped the baton only once, and that was not a hand-off, but at the first of the race.

a. It took both speed and good hand-offs for Danny Jackson and Randy Ackerman to keep the lead in the 440 yard relay.
 b. A good exchange of the baton always helps and Paul Teel helps the cause by giving David Witzel a good "hand off."
 c. Bennie Wallace and Ronnie Webb gave it all they had in the Baytown Relay's final event, the mile relay.

Rangers Run Hard to Break the Tape

a. Ricky Seely broke the tape to become District 24-AAAA mile winner. He went on to get fifth at the regional meet.

b. Randy Ackerman and Bo Denson ran to a second and to a third in the District 100 yard dash.

c. Track was not all glory and thrills. There were times when an individual or a relay team placed third or fourth when a first or second was needed.

d. The varsity was not the only track team to walk away with district. The junior varsity also won and Mike McLendon and Russell Clark were two of the many reasons.

Swim Team

Swimming season began in November with daily workouts at the Carver-Jones pool, and ended with the Regional Meet at Rice. The team participated in ten meets, including the district meet held at Deer Park High School.

Louis Sonnier was the top Sterling entry in district. He placed 2nd in the 200 yd. individual medley. Other winning swimmers were Leigh Johnson, 3rd in the 50 yd. freestyle; Garland Ginzle, 5th in the 100 yd. backstroke; Benny Woods, 6th in the 100 yd. breaststroke; and Chris Litras who was 6th in the 100 yd. freestyle. Louis, the only Sterling swimmer to qualify, placed 6th at regional.

The 1969-70 swimming year found the Ranger Swim Team to be competition for any swim team in the district!

Golf

The Ranger golf team had a fine season, finishing seventh out of twenty teams.

The team played in eight tournaments. They were Pinewood, Terrell Park, Galveston, Orange, Sun Meadows, Goose Creek Country Club, A.&M. Consolidated, and Bryan.

The distance meet was held at the Sun Meadows Golf Course. The outstanding play of the day came from freshman Don Motely who made a hole in one. The day ended with Sterling placing third in district.

Although these golfers work hard, there are also those moments of play—such as the overnight trip to A.&M. and the time Richard Montgomery was thrown into the Goose Creek Country Club's swimming pool.

The top five players for the year and lettermen were Ray Johnson, John Walker, Richard Montgomery, Barry Gidden, and Brian Worth.

Student Council

Planning for the 1970 student council began in May of 1969 when the officers were elected. When school started in September, many of the projects had already been planned.

The student council was in charge of all school elections. Whether voting in regular voting machines or just ballots in classrooms and at lunch, the elections were run efficiently by a member of student body and faculty.

During homecoming week the council set aside a day of the week for each class. A special cheering section was set aside for each class in the cafeteria at lunch and badges were given out. Students voted for the "most beautiful legs" after seeing the legs of the football players. Mike Donahue and his court were presented at the pep rally. After the game the homecoming dance was sponsored by the student council and the homecoming court was announced.

The Student Council sponsored the Governor's Court and presented them at an assembly. The spring dance that followed was paid for by cake and doughnut sales.

Sterling Choir on the Move

Dallas was the first on the list of cities which the 1969-70 Meistersingers visited this year. The band and choir performed at the Hall of State at the State Fair and at the Cotton Bowl. Later in the year the choir sang at the University of Texas in Austin and the First Baptist Church of San Marcos. Included in this trip was a visit to San Antonio and a pleasure excursion trip to Aquarina Springs in San Marcos. The final trip of the year was to Huntsville where they performed at Sam Houston State College.

"Down in the Valley," a one-act folk musical, was presented as a fund-raising project for the Highlands PTA in February. David Hiller was Brack Weaver with Diana Colburn as his sweetheart, Jeanie Parsons. Kim Martin portrayed Jeanie's father. Tim Stone was Thomas Bouchet and Steve Lestarjette was the sheriff. Marc Campos was the preacher.

At the choir banquet, Debbie Coleman was chosen as Outstanding Musician for her work with the choir. The 1970-71 officers were also announced.

The Sterling Stars

Star season began in the summer when the members were seen drilling in the hot August sun. Plans were made and drills were taught to make this year's half-time performances ones to remember. Mickey Mouse ears, lollipops, Indian feathers, and cowboy hats were only a few of the exciting props worn in performances. At pep rallies the Stars added color to the stage while they supported the Rangers. Trading stamps were collected to buy presents for the needy children, and a party was given to them in their honor. A Southern plantation was the setting of the Star Ball this year. Reserve tryouts were held in the spring, and help was given to them by their "big sisters." Nervous juniors tried out for an office in May; the results were announced at the luncheon when the year was brought to a close. Through the hard work of each member, the Stars always got "first place" at half-time.

Talent and imagination can be found in any school, but to capture it in writing is not as common. WORDS, the literary magazine, came to Sterling one Friday in May, revealing many talents that had previously been hidden. Poems, prose, and simple art gave the book a new look—one that was original. WORDS is Sterling's.

1969-70 Governor Staff

Planning the dummy, drawing layouts, cropping pictures, typing copy, and erasing triplicates—all this work—and much more—finally produced the yearbook. Dedicated staff members worked after school, on weekends and on holidays to meet deadlines. Workshops at A&M and the University of Texas gave the staff valuable experience in yearbook planning and working together.

Anchor Club

Anchor Club is an international organization in which girls from all corners of the earth can participate. The Sterling Chapter puts service first. The work they do together seems like one big party. Among their many good deeds are a Christmas basket for an underprivileged family, selling A.F.S. bonds, sending hygiene and entertainment kits to an orphanage in South Viet Nam and selling candy to buy the marquee.

During the year, the Antler Club participated in service projects with other clubs and completed projects of their own. Some of the joint projects included selling candy for the marquee, sending packages to Viet Nam, collecting money for the Cancer Crusade, and selling A.F.S. Friendship Bonds. For the first time this year, the club offered a scholarship. Projects of their own included decorating lockers, a breakfast for the basketball team, and an Easter party and egg hunt at one of the Child Care Centers.

Junior Optimisses

With the beginning of the 1969-70 school year, Junior Optimisses planned the activities for the year. The new members were welcomed with 'baby bibs', and then a slumber party was held for them. A cake sale and curb painting were the money making projects. At the Christmas party, secret pals exchanged gifts, and Duane McLendon, the club beau, was honored with a special gift. A blurry-eyed group of girls from a slumber party the night before transported a sleepy Octagon Club to a surprise breakfast. At the end-of-the year banquet, Glenda honored Carol Mullens as the person who helped her most during the year. Next year's officers were also announced and the seniors were given pink carnations. The final activity was a swimming party for members and their dates at Helen Kubik's house.

Junior Rotary Anns

By now all of you know the purpose of this assembly: to acquaint you with the school's service clubs. I would like you to consider mine—Junior Rotary Anns. We feel our record speaks for itself, so here is a recount of the 1969-70 year.

We began early and by September had made forty-eight football posters, locker decoration assignments, and teacher appreciation pencil holders. In November, another project was instituted: decorating the football player's rooms before the Lee game. To pay the year's expenses (including a surprise slumber party for our new "Little Sisters") we made boutonnieres for Homecoming.

Winter brought projects close to the school: a breakfast for Interact and valentines for the Lee Junior Rotary Anns. We also served at the Junior Forum's "Red Stocking Review," helping their efforts to fight cerebral palsy. A Christmas basket was given to our "adopted" family.

Spring projects included making cards for trays at the Gulf Coast Hospital (junior project) and taking a cake to St. James House (sophomores). The seniors carried on the tradition of registering the senior class for their reunion ten years hence. The entire club also marched for the March of Dimes. The year ended with our luncheon which is given in honor of the Seniors. Here the "Girl of the Year" award was given to Carol Lang. It marked the end of a marvelous year!

Key Club

The Key Club sure had a rough go of it this year! While accomplishing many helpful projects for Baytown, they also ran up against a few minor calamities. While collecting money for muscular distrophy they almost froze; yet on the way to the Spring Training Conference Mr. Lasater's radiator "slightly overheated"; and, to top it all off, they had to eat all the candy they didn't sell for the Kiwanis Club (wow)! Despite these few incidents the Key Club had a great year.

Which came first—service or fun—or were they so intertwined that they were impossible to separate? It would be hard to determine because there was always a show of hands from everybody in the Lioness Club when volunteers were needed to collect for the Lion of Dimes, Cancer Crusade, and Veterans of World War I. The Christmas basket and the box of essentials sent to a hospital in Viet Nam were filled to the brim, and the tray favors taken to hospitals and old folks homes were enthusiastically prepared. The Lion's Club members were glad to see Lioness members, greeting them and registering them at their district meeting held at Sterling.

Service projects were not confined to the community. Lioness members helped raise money to bring a foreign exchange student to Sterling. Candy was sold to help pay for the sign to be erected in front of the school. A spirit drive was conducted with posters and a "Roaming Ranger" who gave a prize to the fiftieth person who said "Beat the Ganders!" Decorated box lunches were given to the football team, Easter baskets to the basketball team, and boxes filled with candy to the other teams.

Business Club

When one hears of a business club, he invariably thinks of learning such dull sounding jobs as typing, filing, and bookkeeping. These, however, are taught in classes and it is other, more imperceptible skills that make one truly successful in his profession. Things such as motivating and directing people, solving new and puzzling problems, making decisions, and using just plain, common sense. It is proficiency in these areas that the Business Club tries to achieve.

Drama Club

The Ross S. Sterling Drama club boasted a membership of 160 members. The officers were David Hiller, director; Kim Martin, stage manager; and Debby Stipe, business manager. To help check roll and contact members five representatives were elected. These were Carlo Lang, representative-at-large; Gary Woods, senior rep.; Marty Schnieder, junior rep.; Johnny Garrett, sophomore rep.; and Johnelle Partin, freshman rep. The Drama Club sponsored two shows this year. With club members making up the majority of the casts and crews of both shows, students gained valuable knowledge and experience.

The Drama Productions' Banquet is the Academy Awards for Sterling dramatics students. For the 1969-70 season Tim Stone was chosen Best Actor; Sue Hale, Best Actress; Ricky Tickner, Best Actor in a Supporting Role; Lisa Pope, Best Actress in a Supporting Role; Judy Cushman, Best Technical for her job on Costume. These awards are chosen by a committee of five which have a background in dramatics and attend the productions. The final award, Most Valuable, is selected by the students who participate in the shows. Debby Stipe was elected to this position for this year. All-Star Cast trophies are also given to those who are thought important to the shows. Six of these awards were given to the six children who made the "Sound of Music" sing.

Drama

The Drama Club also sponsored the One-act play "Overtones" which was presented in Interscholastic League competition. Members of the play included Robbie Mudd, Hettie; Debbie Calhoon, Harriet; Sue Hale, Margaret; Carol Lang, Maggie.

The first Sterling student to take three full years of drama was Debbie Calhoon. In addition to competing in many tournaments, Debbie also had an active part in every Sterling production. She served backstage in many different jobs and the past year, she has had major roles in the show. For her part of Donna Lucia, in "Charley's Aunt," she received a nomination for best actress. Then as The Mother Abbess in "Sound of Music," she brought tears to many eyes as she sang "Climb Every Mountain."

Next year Sterling will have its first chapter of the National Thespians' Society.

Early in the fall, the Future Scientist Club began encouraging its members to do individual research in science. Mr. Mookhoek, co-ordinator of technical data on the United States Steamship Manhattan, spoke at a meeting to which other interested clubs were invited. After the club members began working on their science projects, field trips to the Texas City Dike and to Galveston were made to collect specimens for the biology teachers to use in classes.

Deutscher Verein

The fact that the German people know how to live life to the fullest has been consistently proved by the Deutscher Verein. The year started with the initiation party. A boy wearing flowered suspenders was a sign the German Club was present. After recuperating from the party, club members journeyed to Houston for a German dinner at the Old Munich Inn, and ice-skating afterwards. A German style Christmas party was later held, which served as a family reunion for club members who had graduated. After mid-term tickets were sold for the annual fund-raising project, a barbeque. Profits went to the club's annual TAGS convention which was held in San Antonio this year. The climax of the year was when the club play, "Einer Muss Heiraten," or "One Must Marry," won first in state, defeating numerous Texas high schools. The year ended with a swimming party.

The Ross S. Sterling Future Homemakers' Association had a busy, busy, year. Planning sessions grew into slumber parties where members combined fun with club routines. Activities highlighting the year were: cosmetic and make-up programs presented by Merle Norman, Inc.; and viewing china, silver, and crystal patterns shown by Mr. Hefner. The newly elected president, the sponsor, and the outgoing president attended the state meeting in Austin. Other area meetings were also attended.

During F.H.A. week gifts and favors were given to members of the faculty. Teachers were presented with peppermint sticks, apples, flowers, and other treats. Throughout the year the FHA club has tried to achieve the goal of improving personal, family, and community living,—now and for the future.

Student Assistants

There are many, many small tasks that make up the big job of running a high school. The teachers, librarians, and secretaries have their hands full; the job could not be done if it weren't for the many students who give up their free periods to help. The GOVERNOR salutes the student assistants.

JETS

Each year, the International Engineering Society holds a conference at Texas A&M College. JETS club members are invited to take achievement tests in mathematics, chemistry, physics, and engineering graphics. "Our bus left the bus barn at 6:00 a.m. one Friday morning. We arrived at A&M at 8:30. Club members took tests, explored science departments, and became acquainted with campus life. After a long day, we returned to Baytown—along with a pouring rain!"

When the test results came in, it was noted that the girls scored higher than the boys!

Club officers were Mike Schilaci, President; David Hudson, vice-president; Paula East, secretary-treasurer; Robert Wagnon, reporter; Mr. Bill Coonce, sponsor.

Several speakers presented programs about various engineering fields. Mr. Moekhook, a specialist aboard the USS Manhattan, presented a special slide show about the trip to the Alaskan oil fields.

The purpose of the club is to "create, maintain, and extend throughout the home, school, and community high standards of Christian character." The members

The Literary Club

The Literary Club at Sterling was organized to give students an opportunity to explore the world of literature and the fine arts, past and contemporary. Perhaps contemporary forms of art were more exciting, for the members were always eager to get into Houston to see a play, a show, or a museum.

After the roll was called and the minutes were read at each meeting, someone always said, "Most of us have already seen that picture," or "that is not as good as it sounds like it would be." After a debate, decisions were made and the club went to see the motion picture "Z" and the Natural Science Museum. "The Great Race" was presented in auditorium for those who were interested. As a money-making project, refreshments were served at the Sterling-Lee basketball game.

Sterling Is . . . Mrs. Brown

As a vigilant principal, Mrs. Winnie Brown, devotes all her waking hours to the imminent affairs of her beloved school. All phases of school life are her supreme concern. From freshman orientation to senior graduation, Mrs. Brown is the co-ordinating link between Sterling students and the education they are seeking. She, herself, sets the pattern with her high values for quality education in Sterling halls. Her motto might well be: "Let's keep Sterling Number One!"

Dedicated and decisive, Mr. Don Treuhardt, assistant principal, guides, directs, and encourages all. His motto for students and teachers alike might well be: "Be sure you are right; then proceed thoughtfully."

Mr. George Perkins bears the dual titles of "Keeper of Textbooks" and "Keeper of Boys." When either is out of line he does not rest easily. Austerity tempered with friendliness characterizes a man who believes, "I Am Indeed My Brother's Keeper."

As Director of Special Services and Dean of Girls, Mrs. Charlene Kelly meets her responsibilities with a cheerful smile and a warm heart. While she attempts to keep the calendar straight and the hemlines down, her office is abuzz with activity. Her actions of concern entitle her to this befitting motto: "Every girl's problem is indeed my own."

Counselors Help Students Plan Future

Each counselor tries to know approximately 500 students in order to help them plan college and careers. Counselors are available to students at any time to discuss any situation or problem. The guidance office keeps information on colleges and college requirements, and information on various vocations for student use.

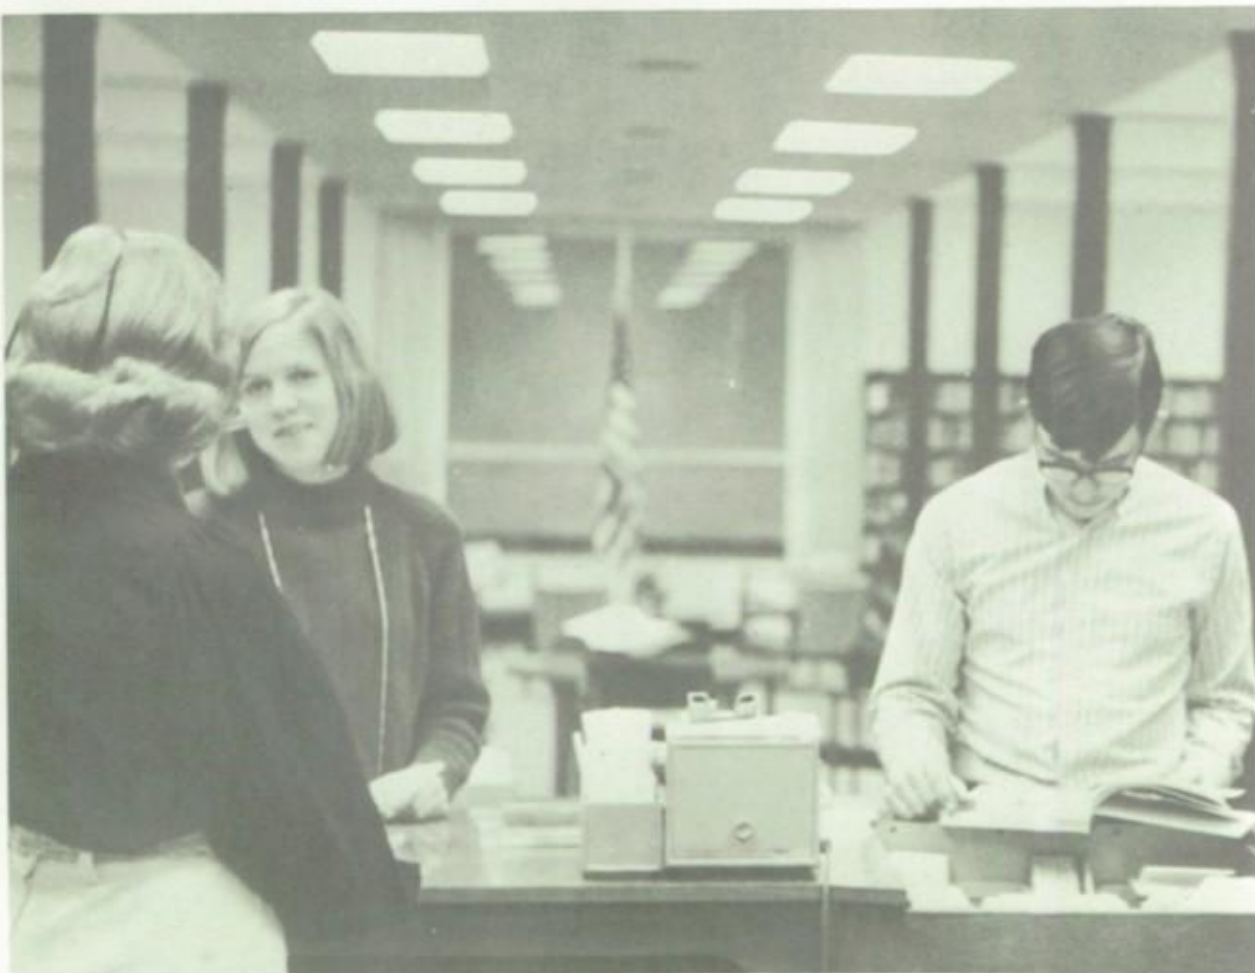

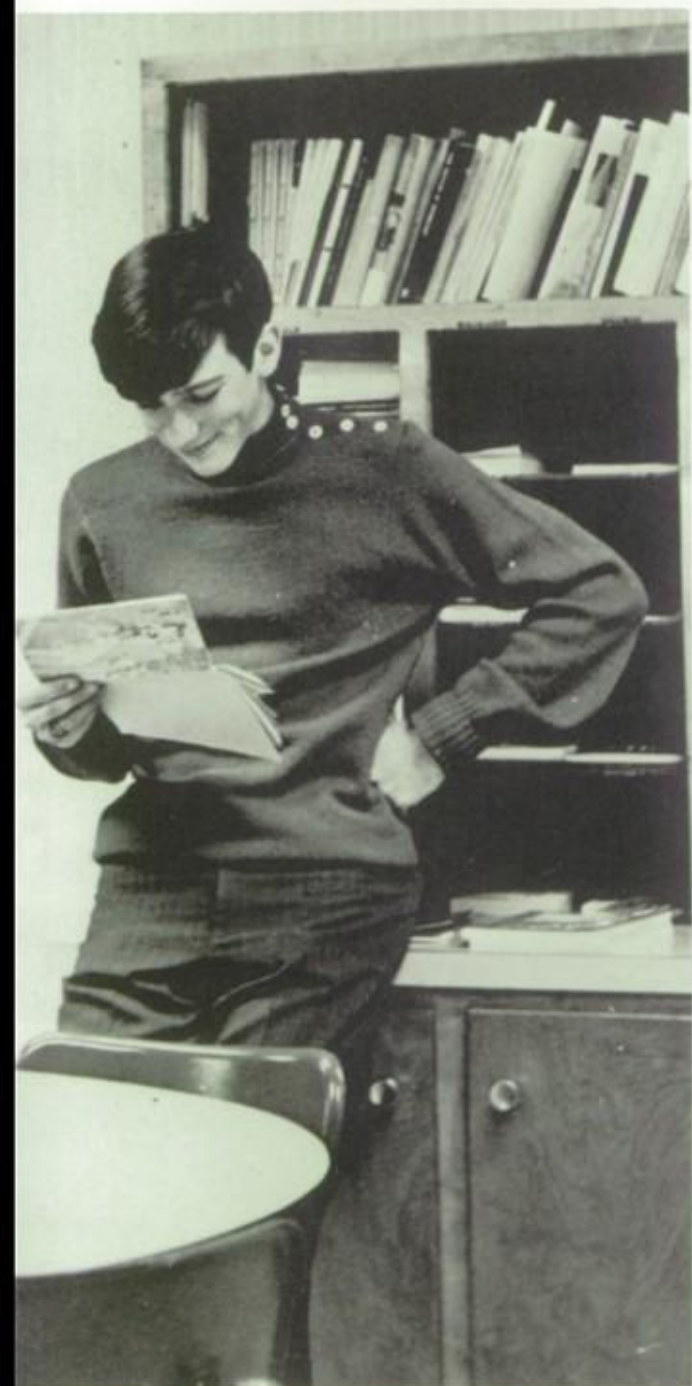

Librarians Spur Students to Knowledge

Librarians have the formidable task of running a library for over 2,000 students. Students help shelve and check out books and magazines. The librarians explain filing systems to new students, direct students to biographies, check to make sure books have the correct date card, direct students to classicals, collect fines on overdue books, direct students to fiction books, operate the copying machine, direct students to reference books, search for back issues of magazines, direct teachers to books, and sometimes, librarians even have time to breathe.

Sterling's Maintenance and Cafeteria Staff

The maintenance staff carries out endless tasks to keep the school in top shape at all times. They are the first to arrive and the last to leave each school function.

Custodians are Rosalie Brinac, Nick Campos, Ella Mae Coxson, Elvira Davis, Martin DeBusk, Odessa Hildreth, William Ramsey, Ronnie Simmons, Loren Sullivan, Laura Thomas, Margaret Thomas, and Viola Tubbs.

This year marks the beginning of participation in the Federal School Lunch Program. A balanced breakfast costs 15¢ and a nutritious lunch including a salad and a dessert, 40¢.

Cafeteria workers are Irene Costlow, Hazel Cravey, Inez Erwin, Joyce Greer, Emma May, Pat Listi, Frances Jones, Bertha Lemond, Shirley Moore, Laura Owen, Christine Thompson, Marie Read, Alice Rahlwes, and Bobbie Wimmer.

Secretaries

Everyone seems to be in the office at sometime or another. On Monday mornings, the main office seems like Grand Central Station. Aside from regular administrative duties, secretaries are plagued by such essential questions as 'May I use the phone?' 'Can I talk to Mrs. Brown?' 'Is that Mr. Perkins?' Attendance office secretaries and workers contend with 'I wasn't absent Tuesday!' and 'Can I have a permit to class? My alarm clock didn't ... Since the LOST and Found Office and the Textbook records are located in one room, 'Has anyone turned in my literature book?' and 'O.K. How much are literature books?' are often heard in unison.

"Tell It Like It Is"

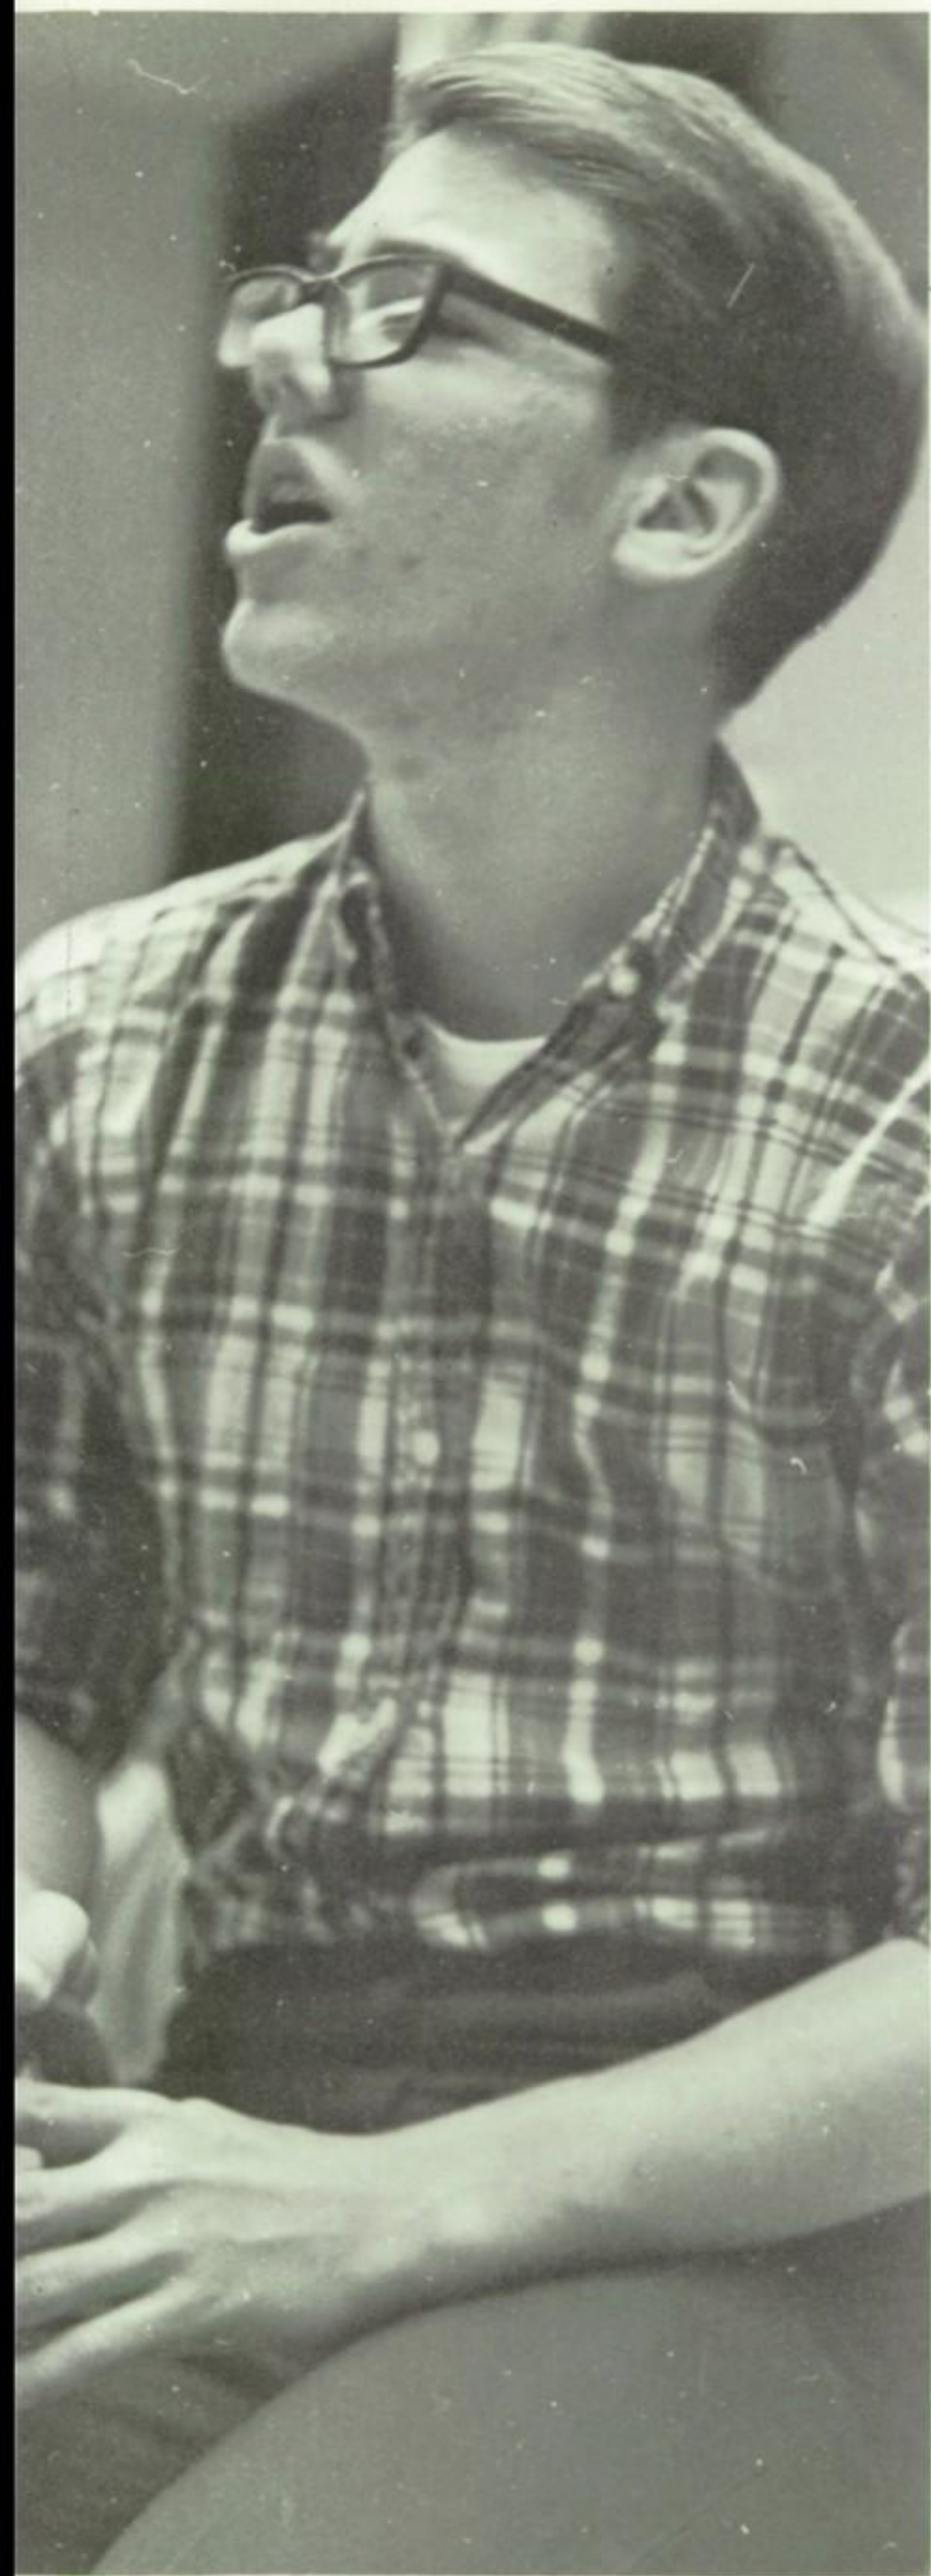

Each year, students struggle with term papers, themes, and essays in an effort to "tell it like it is." As the students study grammar, they gain a knowledge of today's working language. Classes are enlightened by the use of films, skits, and speakers. Emphasis is placed on teaching the mechanics of grammar so that the students learn to express themselves with more power. The English department strives to help each student reveal himself through expression.

Media Presents Math Message

Intensive use of media—overhead projectors, overlays and transparencies; models and manipulative devices; films and tapes—present ideas using numbers and special relationships in a world where such ideas are assuming ever-increasing importance.

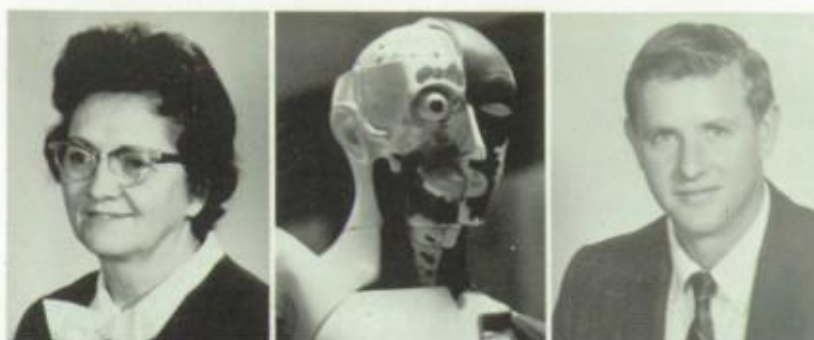

The mathematics department of Sterling offers courses for students who plan to study math in college and courses for those whose mathematical studies will end in high school. Related Math I and II survey the world of mathematics. Algebra I and II translate situations into equations. Geometry is the study of spacial relationships by way of logical thought. Trigonometry, calculus, analytic geometry, and Analysis I and II are offered for students who desire more challenge.

Students Explore Worlds of Science

Man's curiosity has led him into worlds beyond his imagination. Provoked and goaded by unanswered questions, he has pursued study, observed, thought, and reasoned until order and principle have brought forth answers. His scientific knowledge has grown since the time he experimented with the warmth of fire to now, when he plans communication with the outer realms of his solar system.

The science program at Sterling begins with general physical science where a foundation is laid. Biology I and II give the student an opportunity to study his environment and the living specimens which it contains. Chemistry explains structure, composition, and properties of substance. The behavior and interrelationship of matter and energy is studied in physics classes. Logical approaches to the solutions of problems can be investigated in the advanced science courses.

Como esta? Tres bien.

By listening, speaking, reading, and writing, students become familiar with not only grammar construction and conversation in foreign languages, but also with the customs and history of a foreign land. With two language labs constantly in use, varied films covering each country, and many interested students, foreign languages are some of the most popular of all electives. Students may study French, German, Latin, or Spanish for one to four years.

P.E. Dept. — Everybody Gets in the Act

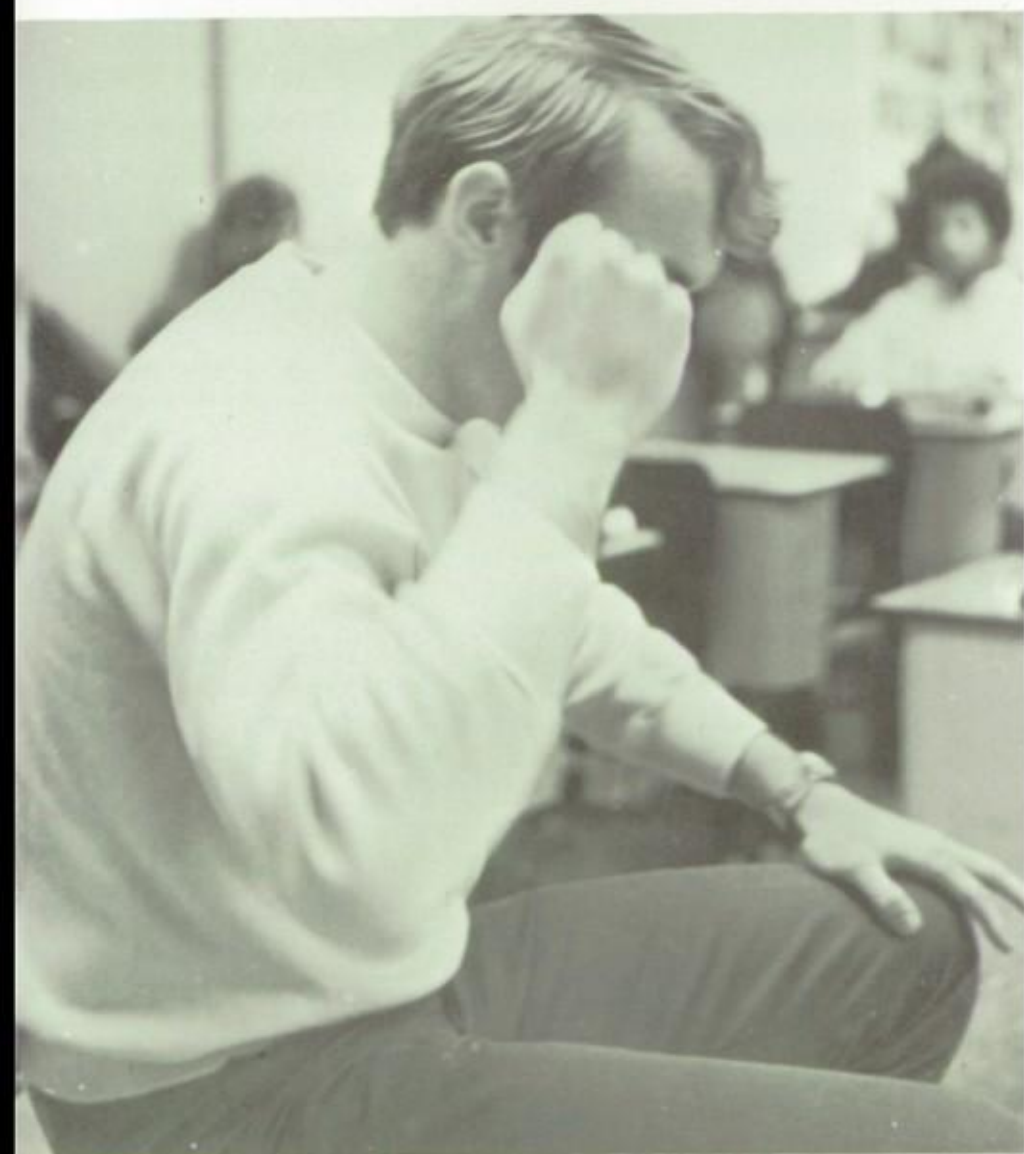

Physical education teachers help students learn group games and individual sports. Volleyball, football, baseball, and basketball stress competition and sportsmanship. Golf, archery, gymnastics, and modern dance place emphasis on grace and skill. Daily exercise is part of the physical fitness program prepared by the teachers. The health program includes safety, drug abuse, dangers of alcohol and tobacco, community living, and first aid.

Group Involvement Helps Learning

Choir, band, speech and drama involve many Sterling students. Through practice, rehearsals, and instruction, the students gain experience and understandings that will be with them for the rest of their lives. Contests, concerts, and shows add to the classroom activities of these subjects and provide entertainment for the students as well as the people of Baytown.

In today's world, many people lose their identity. They are as a machine, going to work, working, going home, going to sleep, sleeping. However, students in drafting, photography, home-making, arts, and crafts are people who don't want to lose their identity. These classes are helping them to identify with the world to which they will soon contribute their arts, plans, hopes and dreams. They are "doing their thing" by learning skill that will benefit them in later life.
